India Charges Communist Chinese Fire Across Border

$60,000 Raised For Site

Earl Jarvis and Dr. Wendell Weathers, co-chairmen of the Jaycee mental retardation clinic site fund drive, announced in a meeting Saturday noon in the Holiday Inn that pledges and contributions totaling $60,000 have been received, leaving approximately $8,000 to be pledged before the goal is reached.

Jarvis urged committee captains to get their contributions in that the drive can be closed this week.

"Anyone who has not been personally contacted may contribute by mailing a check to Box 485, Sikeston, care of Jaycee Mental Retardation site fund," he said.

The $60,000 reported pledged raised contributions almost $3,000 from the figure reported Friday. Additional contributors were not reported.

Speaks For Liberty

VATICAN CITY AP -- Long-imprisoned Josef Cardinal Beran of Czechoslovakia backed a declaration on religious liberty today and said the Roman Catholic Church apparently was suffering in his Communist-ruled homeland because of past sins against Protestants.

The 77-year-old prelate, released last February from 16 years in confinement in Czechoslovakia, was warmly applauded as he stook before the Vatican Ecumenical Council to address it for the first time.

Cardinal Beran said the principle that every man has the right to worship according to his conscience was confirmed by his own experience.

The Czech cardinal spoke as debate continued on a controversial council draft declaration on religious liberty. A vote had been expected today, but so many of the 2,200 council fathers still wanted to speak that a vote seems unlikely until later in the week.

An approval vote doesn't mean the religious liberty declaration is finished and decreed. Instead, the text becomes frozen from any major changes while a subcommittee of the Vatican's Christian Unity Secretariat looks over suggested amendments made in council speeches or in writing.

Erhard Wins German Vote

BONN, Germany (AP) - Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and his Christian Democratic party kept their leadership of West Germany in an election triumph for the chubby government chief.

The voters decided Sunday that after 16 years of Christian Democratic rule they wanted more of the same. The turnout was 86.9 per cent of the eligible voters.

The election results, giving 15,392,973 votes to Erhards's party, disappointed the challenging Social Democrats and their chancellor candidate, Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin. His party tallied 12,-711,726 votes.

Although Erhard's party won the biggest share of the votes, 47.6 per cent, it did not get an absolute majority and is certain to continue its coalition with the Free Democrats.

Betsy Toll Rises

NEW ORLEANS AP -- The death toll continues to inch upward as Hurricane Betsy's flood waters recede and salvage and cleanup workers move in.

Two drowned New Orleans residents were found in a city flood area Sunday, boosting the state's total to 78.

The National Guard had reduced its emergency force to 291 today. There were 2,700 Guardsmen in disaster areas after the hurricane struck 10 days ago.

The Red Cross reported 7,-614 evacuees remained in 11 shelters, with another 8,000 being fed by mobile kitchen units.

At Baton Rouge, 85 miles up the Mississippi River, an Army diver, working blind in the muddy water, resumes his painstaking bare hand inspection of a sunken barge loaded with deadly chlorine.

The barge, with 600 tons of chlorine aboard in four steel tanks, was sunk by the hurricane in 60 feet of water near the Louisiana State campus.

Officials want to know what shape the barge is in after the wild ride which sent it to the bottom.

Chlorine, a common industrial chemical, can be extremely dangerous if accidentally released from a pressure tank. Coast Guard boats escorted all river traffic around the danger point.

Clash Over Church Rites

SAN FRANCISCO AP -- Two bishops of the Episcopal Church have clashed over the investiture ceremony of Deaconess Phyllis Edwards and whether or not she is entitled to be called "the reverend" as a minister.

At Peoria, Ill., Sunday, the Rt. Rev. Francis W. Lickfield, president of the American Church Union of the Episcopal Church, took California Bishop James A. Pike to task for recognizing a woman as minister.

During services at St. Pauls' church, Lickfield said of the 48-year-old woman, "She is not a clergyman."

He continued: "An Episcopal deaconess is not an episcopal clergyman. She is what she has always been, a Christian woman who ministers in an ancient order for women, the Order of Deaconesses."

Lickfield said Mrs. Edwards "has not been ordained to the sacred ministry and stands in no different position now than formerly."

Bishop Pike replied at Concord, Calif., that Mrs. Edwards is a minister and is entitled to be addressed, "the reverend."

Make Strides To End Strike

NEW YORK AP -- Representatives of the American Newspaper Guild and the New York Times resume negotiations today after making the first reported progress in settling the five-day strike-shutdown.

Both sides agreed as a session broke up after midnight that they had moved slightly closer to agreement on a pension plan, one of four major issues in the walkout.

The negotiators planned to meet at noon for further study of a guild proposal and Times' counter proposal on the pension issue.

The 2,200 editorial, business and maintenance guild members struck the Times Thursday morning. Newspapers belonging to the Publishers Association of New York City suspended publication in support of the Times.

The New York Post, which is not a member of the association, has continued to publish.

Carol Offers Little Threat

MIAMI, Fla. AP -- Tropical storm Carol, third of the season, boiled up far out in the Atlantic Ocean today but forecasters say the chances are the storm will never reach the United States.

"When a storm forms this far east the chances are good it will not reach the United States," said forecaster Gilbert Clark. "I won't say it isn't possible but it's less likely than if it had formed further to the west."

Tropical storm Carol was about 1,550 miles east of San Juan, P. R., and about 2,500 miles east-southeast of Miami early today, moving west-northwest at 14 miles an hour.

Praise Progress Of Experiment

LA JOLLA, Calif. AP-- The Navy's 45-day Sealab 2 underwater living experiment reached the half-way point Sunday and officials praised its progress lavishly.

"We are easily accomplishing or exceeding what we've planned to do," said Capt. George Bond, chief investigator of the experiment.

Long Soaked At Dedication

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) - Missouri Interstate 70 highway was dedicated in Columbia Sunday. The 252-mile-long dual expressway is the first major portion of the projected intercontinental road to be completed.

A rain and windstorm washed out the outdoor dedication. Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., was drenched and forced to miss the dinner portion of the festivities.

Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor was the main speaker at the dinner.

Connor pointed out the highway is an "enormous bonus in safety," and cuts the driving time from St. Louis to Kansas City by 20 per cent.

Seeks To Dominate All Asia

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri declared today Communist Chinese troops are firing across the Indian frontier in two sectors and that Peking is out to dominate all of Asia.

The Chinese, though pretending they want peace, have started firing in the Sikkim area on the eastern front and in the Ladakh region of Kashmir State on the western front, Shastri said.

China's "basic objective," Shastri said, "is to attain a position of dominance in Asia."

The prime minister declared that notes and protests from Peking make it clear that:

"What China is looking for is not the redress of grievances, real or imaginary, but some excuse to start its aggressive activities again, this time in collusion with its ally Pakistan."

If China persists, Shastri said, "We shall defend ourselves by all the means at our disposal."

Socialist leader Nath Pai jumped to his feet and demanded to know whether Indian units on the China frontier had been ordered to fire back.

"I would merely wish to say we will resist them; we will fight them," Shastri replied.

Shastri made no reply to the resolution passed earlier today by the U.N. Security Council in New York, demanding India and Pakistan end their war within 48 hours.

India's Defense Ministry announced earlier that Chinese troops had moved close to "all the passes" on Tibet's border with Sikkim, an Indian protectorate, and that Pakistan also is massing troops on India's eastern frontiers.

The ministry said latest reports indicated "Chinese troops have come quite close to all the passes on the Sikkim border. In some cases, they have been seen to be digging it."

The Chinese were seen in two new areas, the ministry said. It identified them as the Hot Spring and Fukche areas of the Ladakh region of northeast Kashmir State.

Communist China today followed up the extension of its border ultimatum to India with a charge that Indian troops had fired on a Chinese border guard.

An Indian spokesman denied the charge and said the Chinese claims were "mere fabrications." He accused China of "indulging in provocative activities."

Indian news agencies reported it was the Chinese who had fired first.

Paratroopers Kill 155 Viet Cong Troops

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) - U.S. paratroopers killed 155 Viet Cong in bloody fighting near Ah Khe over the weekend, military authorities said today.

An officer who came here from the fighting area 250 miles to the north said 100 Viet Cong bodies were found today in a trench. They apparently were victims of air strikes that saturated the operational area in support of paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Brigade.

The report came while the 101st "Screaming Eagle" troopers kept up sporadic contact with the Viet Cong Monday and paratroopers of the 173rd Airborne Brigade continued their hunt for Viet Cong in the jungles and rubber plantations around Ben Cat, 30 miles north of Saigon.

While American paratroopers were in action in two widely separated areas, spokesmen said U. S. Strategic Air Command B52 bombers again pounded a suspected guerrilla stronghold in still a third region, the Meking River delta south of Saigon.

Col. Lynn Twitty of the Marine corps reserves, spoke at the Aviation day observance of the civil air patrol at the Airport Saturday.

Missouri wing Commander Lieutenant Colonel Sterling R. Kennedy, and members of his staff attended, along with representatives from the Cape Girardeau, Dexter, and Poplar Bluff CAP squadrons.

Announcement was made by Wing Commander Kennedy that two Very High Frequency stations have been obtained to give better communication in Southeast Missouri. One of the 50-watt stations will be located in Sikeston.

Fires Near Control

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) -After days of battling forest and brush fires which have blackened 207,000 acres of Northern California, weary fire fighters were optimistic today as one of two major fires remaining was partially contained.

Fire crews were able to contain the more than 16,000-acre Chiles Valley fire on its north and west sides. Its south and west flanks were reported still out of control.

The fire, in Napa County about 40 miles northeast of San Francisco, burned around summer homes near Atlas Creek but did not damage the structures which were watered down by State Division of Forestry pumper trucks.

In Sonoma County about 45 miles north of San Francisco, a hot fire was reported marching on scattered summer homes near Austin Creek, west of the mountain settlement of Cazadero, a spokesman said. That fire had already laid waste 6,000 acres of grassland and tall timber.

Officials said that since the fires started last Thursday there have been 275 fires in 21 counties, reducing to ashes the cover on more than 315 square miles.

The fires have cost one life, an El Dorado County volunteer fireman killed in his overturned truck; destroyed more than 120 houses, about 400 out buildings and 1,500 head of cattle, sheep and hogs. Damage has been estimated at about $4.5 million. Five counties hardest hit by the sweep of flames fought by 5,000 men were designated disaster areas Saturday by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Turncoat Sorry That He Went To China

KANSAS CITY (AP) — William C. White is sorry now that he decided to go to Communist China 11½ years ago. But he doesn't want people to think of him as a turncoat.

"When I made that decision, I didn't realize the complications," White said in Kansas City Sunday. "If I had known it would be so involved getting back home, then I might have chosen differently."

White returned home, the 16th of 21 Korean War turncoats to come back to America.

The 35-year-old White accompanied by his Chinese wife and two children, John, 6, and Ann, 4, had a tearful reunion at the airport with his aunt, Mrs. Bertha L. Johnson.

Tears streaming down her face, Mrs. Johnson who had reared him, held a football for John and a doll for Ann as she embraced White.

His mother, Mrs. Mattie Gorman of Plumerville, Ark., has been ill. She said Sunday she plans to come to Kansas City to see White but doesn't know when.

"Now that I'm home," he said, "I see I'm called a turncoat. That's nonsense. I never betrayed my country while in China. I went there as an American and I carried myself as an American."

White quit school in Kansas City in 1948 and joined the Army. He was 17.

Why did he decide to go to Red China?

"I was curious about the people there," White said. "And I figured this was an opportunity to study the Chinese language and history first hand."

He said the Chinese showed no prejudice toward him because he is a Negro. They were slightly suspicious of him, he said, but because he was a foreigner.

"They were also suspicious of Polish, Indonesians, Britishers, Africans and Czechoslovakians who were my classmates," White said.

He studied international law at Chinese Peoples' University, getting his degree. Just before returning home, White was a translator of children's books in Peking.

While he was impressed by the educated Chinese's interest in history and economics, he said their doctrine of collectivism was ver restricting.

"I am an individual," White said, "and I want to be treated as one. But all they talk about is collectivism." They don't want people who think."

White said he wants a job and is interested in getting a degree from an American college.

"I'm not a Communist and I'm not here to propagate communism," he said.

Congress Plunges Into Busy Week-No Letup Is In Sight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, speeding past another of its hoped - for adjournment dates, plunges into a busy week today with no let-up in sight.

There was a time when the members thought they would be home by mid-September; now the optimists talk about mid-October, but not very loudly.

A prediction that President Johnson may run into a congressional revolt came Sunday from Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La. and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said Congress wouldn't get home for a long time if the administration brings up its proposal to repeal section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act. The section allows states to ban union shop agreements.

Interviewed on CBS' radio-television program "Face the Nation" Dirksen said, "I don't like to use the word filibuster. But if 14B is dished out, I can assure you there is going to be extended discussion."

Ellender, in an interview transcribed for Radio Press International, said that if President Johnson "continues to send us a lot of legislation that is controversial and that would have the effect of keeping us here to Christmas, some of us I'm sure will revolt."

The Senate has scheduled action on two of the major bills of the session — a revision of the immigration laws and a $3.2 billion appropriation for the foreign aid program. Both have cleared the House in different forms.

The House hopes to act on 17 bills, most of them of a minor nature. One, however, is a $2-billion authorization for construction of 144 river, harbor and flood control projects.

Also on the House agenda is a bill that would require the Alfred I. duPont estate in Florida, which owns a complex of banks and industries, to divest itself of its nonbanking properties.

Despite the sweeping nature of the proposed changes in immigration policy, little trouble is anticipated in getting Senate approval.

The main controversy — whether to impose an immigration ceiling on the Western Hemisphere — was fought out in committee. A ceiling of 120,000 was written into the bill and there apparently will be no effort to remove it.

The issue was strongly contested in the House, which at the administration's insistence kept a ceiling off. The administration quickly capitulated to advocates of a ceiling in the Senate, however.

The main effect of the bill would be to end the 41-year-old system of basing immigration on the nationality of applicants. Instead, those countries outside the Western Hemisphere, which are now assigned individual quotas, would be treated equally under a total quota of 170,000.

In view of the collapse of administration efforts to block a Western Hemisphere ceiling, the House is expected to accept the Senate version when conferees meet to work out a mutually acceptable bill.

The Senate's foreign aid bill would give the administration $92 million less than the House appropriated for foreign aid, a marked departure from recent years when the Senate was counted on to restore deeper cuts made by the House.

Backed up on the House calendar are three bills that threaten difficulties for the leadership — one increasing the minimum wage to $1.75 an hour and greatly increasing its coverage, one granting home rule to the District of Columbia, and one granting big pay raises to federal workers — including members of Congress. Still in committee is the highway beautification bill on which the administration is demanding action.

"Anyone who has not been personally contacted may contribute by mailing a check to Box 485, Sikeston, care of Jaycee Mental Retardation site fund," he said.

The $60,000 reported pledged raised contributions almost $3,000 from the figure reported Friday. Additional contributors were not reported.

Speaks For Liberty

VATICAN CITY AP -- Long-imprisoned Josef Cardinal Beran of Czechoslovakia backed a declaration on religious liberty today and said the Roman Catholic Church apparently was suffering in his Communist-ruled homeland because of past sins against Protestants.

The 77-year-old prelate, released last February from 16 years in confinement in Czechoslovakia, was warmly applauded as he stook before the Vatican Ecumenical Council to address it for the first time.

Cardinal Beran said the principle that every man has the right to worship according to his conscience was confirmed by his own experience.

The Czech cardinal spoke as debate continued on a controversial council draft declaration on religious liberty. A vote had been expected today, but so many of the 2,200 council fathers still wanted to speak that a vote seems unlikely until later in the week.

An approval vote doesn't mean the religious liberty declaration is finished and decreed. Instead, the text becomes frozen from any major changes while a subcommittee of the Vatican's Christian Unity Secretariat looks over suggested amendments made in council speeches or in writing.

Erhard Wins German Vote

BONN, Germany (AP) - Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and his Christian Democratic party kept their leadership of West Germany in an election triumph for the chubby government chief.

The voters decided Sunday that after 16 years of Christian Democratic rule they wanted more of the same. The turnout was 86.9 per cent of the eligible voters.

The election results, giving 15,392,973 votes to Erhards's party, disappointed the challenging Social Democrats and their chancellor candidate, Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin. His party tallied 12,-711,726 votes.

Although Erhard's party won the biggest share of the votes, 47.6 per cent, it did not get an absolute majority and is certain to continue its coalition with the Free Democrats.

Betsy Toll Rises

NEW ORLEANS AP -- The death toll continues to inch upward as Hurricane Betsy's flood waters recede and salvage and cleanup workers move in.

Two drowned New Orleans residents were found in a city flood area Sunday, boosting the state's total to 78.

The National Guard had reduced its emergency force to 291 today. There were 2,700 Guardsmen in disaster areas after the hurricane struck 10 days ago.

The Red Cross reported 7,-614 evacuees remained in 11 shelters, with another 8,000 being fed by mobile kitchen units.

At Baton Rouge, 85 miles up the Mississippi River, an Army diver, working blind in the muddy water, resumes his painstaking bare hand inspection of a sunken barge loaded with deadly chlorine.

The barge, with 600 tons of chlorine aboard in four steel tanks, was sunk by the hurricane in 60 feet of water near the Louisiana State campus.

Officials want to know what shape the barge is in after the wild ride which sent it to the bottom.

Chlorine, a common industrial chemical, can be extremely dangerous if accidentally released from a pressure tank. Coast Guard boats escorted all river traffic around the danger point.

Clash Over Church Rites

SAN FRANCISCO AP -- Two bishops of the Episcopal Church have clashed over the investiture ceremony of Deaconess Phyllis Edwards and whether or not she is entitled to be called "the reverend" as a minister.

At Peoria, Ill., Sunday, the Rt. Rev. Francis W. Lickfield, president of the American Church Union of the Episcopal Church, took California Bishop James A. Pike to task for recognizing a woman as minister.

During services at St. Pauls' church, Lickfield said of the 48-year-old woman, "She is not a clergyman."

He continued: "An Episcopal deaconess is not an episcopal clergyman. She is what she has always been, a Christian woman who ministers in an ancient order for women, the Order of Deaconesses."

Lickfield said Mrs. Edwards "has not been ordained to the sacred ministry and stands in no different position now than formerly."

Bishop Pike replied at Concord, Calif., that Mrs. Edwards is a minister and is entitled to be addressed, "the reverend."

Make Strides To End Strike

NEW YORK AP -- Representatives of the American Newspaper Guild and the New York Times resume negotiations today after making the first reported progress in settling the five-day strike-shutdown.

Both sides agreed as a session broke up after midnight that they had moved slightly closer to agreement on a pension plan, one of four major issues in the walkout.

The negotiators planned to meet at noon for further study of a guild proposal and Times' counter proposal on the pension issue.

The 2,200 editorial, business and maintenance guild members struck the Times Thursday morning. Newspapers belonging to the Publishers Association of New York City suspended publication in support of the Times.

The New York Post, which is not a member of the association, has continued to publish.

Carol Offers Little Threat

MIAMI, Fla. AP -- Tropical storm Carol, third of the season, boiled up far out in the Atlantic Ocean today but forecasters say the chances are the storm will never reach the United States.

"When a storm forms this far east the chances are good it will not reach the United States," said forecaster Gilbert Clark. "I won't say it isn't possible but it's less likely than if it had formed further to the west."

Tropical storm Carol was about 1,550 miles east of San Juan, P. R., and about 2,500 miles east-southeast of Miami early today, moving west-northwest at 14 miles an hour.

Praise Progress Of Experiment

LA JOLLA, Calif. AP-- The Navy's 45-day Sealab 2 underwater living experiment reached the half-way point Sunday and officials praised its progress lavishly.

"We are easily accomplishing or exceeding what we've planned to do," said Capt. George Bond, chief investigator of the experiment.

The second 10-man aquanaut team, except for Cmdr. M. Scott Carpenter, completed its seventh of 15 days in 205-feet-deep Sealab Sunday.

Long Soaked At Dedication

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) - Missouri Interstate 70 highway was dedicated in Columbia Sunday. The 252-mile-long dual expressway is the first major portion of the projected intercontinental road to be completed.

A rain and windstorm washed out the outdoor dedication. Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., was drenched and forced to miss the dinner portion of the festivities.

Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor was the main speaker at the dinner.

Connor pointed out the highway is an "enormous bonus in safety," and cuts the driving time from St. Louis to Kansas City by 20 per cent.

Seeks To Dominate All Asia

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri declared today Communist Chinese troops are firing across the Indian frontier in two sectors and that Peking is out to dominate all of Asia.

The Chinese, though pretending they want peace, have started firing in the Sikkim area on the eastern front and in the Ladakh region of Kashmir State on the western front, Shastri said.

China's "basic objective," Shastri said, "is to attain a position of dominance in Asia."

The prime minister declared that notes and protests from Peking make it clear that:

"What China is looking for is not the redress of grievances, real or imaginary, but some excuse to start its aggressive activities again, this time in collusion with its ally Pakistan."

If China persists, Shastri said, "We shall defend ourselves by all the means at our disposal."

Socialist leader Nath Pai jumped to his feet and demanded to know whether Indian units on the China frontier had been ordered to fire back.

"I would merely wish to say we will resist them; we will fight them," Shastri replied.

Shastri made no reply to the resolution passed earlier today by the U.N. Security Council in New York, demanding India and Pakistan end their war within 48 hours.

India's Defense Ministry announced earlier that Chinese troops had moved close to "all the passes" on Tibet's border with Sikkim, an Indian protectorate, and that Pakistan also is massing troops on India's eastern frontiers.

The ministry said latest reports indicated "Chinese troops have come quite close to all the passes on the Sikkim border. In some cases, they have been seen to be digging it."

The Chinese were seen in two new areas, the ministry said. It identified them as the Hot Spring and Fukche areas of the Ladakh region of northeast Kashmir State.

Communist China today followed up the extension of its border ultimatum to India with a charge that Indian troops had fired on a Chinese border guard.

An Indian spokesman denied the charge and said the Chinese claims were "mere fabrications." He accused China of "indulging in provocative activities."

Indian news agencies reported it was the Chinese who had fired first.

Paratroopers Kill 155 Viet Cong Troops

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) - U. S. paratroopers killed 155 Viet Cong in bloody fighting near Ah Khe over the weekend, military authorities said today.

An officer who came here from the fighting area 250 miles to the north said 100 Viet Cong bodies were found today in a trench. They apparently were victims of air strikes that saturated the operational area in support of paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Brigade.

The report came while the 101st "Screaming Eagle" troopers kept up sporadic contact with the Viet Cong Monday and paratroopers of the 173rd Airborne Brigade continued their hunt for Viet Cong in the jungles and rubber plantations around Ben Cat, 30 miles north of Saigon.

While American paratroopers were in action in two widely separated areas, spokesmen said U. S. Strategic Air Command B52 bombers again pounded a suspected guerrilla stronghold in still a third region, the Meking River delta south of Saigon.

Twitty Talks On Conflict

Col. Lynn Twitty of the Marine corps reserves, spoke at the Aviation day observance of the civil air patrol at the Airport Saturday.

Missouri wing Commander Lieutenant Colonel Sterling R. Kennedy, and members of his staff attended, along with representatives from the Cape Girardeau, Dexter, and Poplar Bluff CAP squadrons.

Announcement was made by Wing Commander Kennedy that two Very High Frequency stations have been obtained to give better communication in Southeast Missouri. One of the 50-watt stations will be located in Sikeston.

A civil defense mission is planned for October 14-15 in Jefferson City.

Fires Near Control

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) -After days of battling forest and brush fires which have blackened 207,000 acres of Northern California, weary fire fighters were optimistic today as one of two major fires remaining was partially contained.

Fire crews were able to contain the more than 16,000-acre Chiles Valley fire on its north and west sides. Its south and west flanks were reported still out of control.

The fire, in Napa County about 40 miles northeast of San Francisco, burned around summer homes near Atlas Creek but did not damage the structures which were watered down by State Division of Forestry pumper trucks.

In Sonoma County about 45 miles north of San Francisco, a hot fire was reported marching on scattered summer homes near Austin Creek, west of the mountain settlement of Cazadero, a spokesman said. That fire had already laid waste 6,000 acres of grassland and tall timber.

Officials said that since the fires started last Thursday there have been 275 fires in 21 counties, reducing to ashes the cover on more than 315 square miles.

The fires have cost one life, an El Dorado County volunteer fireman killed in his overturned truck; destroyed more than 120 houses, about 400 out buildings and 1,500 head of cattle, sheep and hogs. Damage has been estimated at about $4.5 million. Five counties hardest hit by the sweep of flames fought by 5,000 men were designated disaster areas Saturday by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Turncoat Sorry That He Went To China

KANSAS CITY (AP) — William C. White is sorry now that he decided to go to Communist China 11½ years ago. But he doesn't want people to think of him as a turncoat.

"When I made that decision, I didn't realize the complications," White said in Kansas City Sunday. "If I had known it would be so involved getting back home, then I might have chosen differently."

White returned home, the 16th of 21 Korean War turncoats to come back to America.

The 35-year-old White accompanied by his Chinese wife and two children, John, 6, and Ann, 4, had a tearful reunion at the airport with his aunt, Mrs. Bertha L. Johnson.

Tears streaming down her face, Mrs. Johnson who had reared him, held a football for John and a doll for Ann as she embraced White.

His mother, Mrs. Mattie Gorman of Plumerville, Ark., has been ill. She said Sunday she plans to come to Kansas City to see White but doesn't know when.

"Now that I'm home," he said, "I see I'm called a turncoat. That's nonsense. I never betrayed my country while in China. I went there as an American and I carried myself as an American."

White quit school in Kansas City in 1948 and joined the Army. He was 17.

Why did he decide to go to Red China?

"I was curious about the people there," White said. "And I figured this was an opportunity to study the Chinese language and history first hand."

He said the Chinese showed no prejudice toward him because he is a Negro. They were slightly suspicious of him, he said, but because he was a foreigner.

"They were also suspicious of Polish, Indonesians, Britishers, Africans and Czechoslovakians who were my classmates," White said.

He studied international law at Chinese Peoples' University, getting his degree. Just before returning home, White was a translator of children's books in Peking.

While he was impressed by the educated Chinese's interest in history and economics, he said their doctrine of collectivism was ver restricting.

"I am an individual," White said, "and I want to be treated as one. But all they talk about is collectivism." They don't want people who think."

White said he wants a job and is interested in getting a degree from an American college.

"I'm not a Communist and I'm not here to propagate communism," he said.

Congress Plunges Into Busy Week-No Letup Is In Sight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, speeding past another of its hoped - for adjournment dates, plunges into a busy week today with no let-up in sight.

There was a time when the members thought they would be home by mid-September; now the optimists talk about mid-October, but not very loudly.

A prediction that President Johnson may run into a congressional revolt came Sunday from Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La. and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said Congress wouldn't get home for a long time if the administration brings up its proposal to repeal section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act. The section allows states to ban union shop agreements.

Interviewed on CBS' radio-television program "Face the Nation" Dirksen said, "I don't like to use the word filibuster. But if 14B is dished out, I can assure you there is going to be extended discussion."

Ellender, in an interview transcribed for Radio Press International, said that if President Johnson "continues to send us a lot of legislation that is controversial and that would have the effect of keeping us here to Christmas, some of us I'm sure will revolt."

The Senate has scheduled action on two of the major bills of the session — a revision of the immigration laws and a $3.2 billion appropriation for the foreign aid program. Both have cleared the House in different forms.

The House hopes to act on 17 bills, most of them of a minor nature. One, however, is a $2-billion authorization for construction of 144 river, harbor and flood control projects.

Also on the House agenda is a bill that would require the Alfred I. duPont estate in Florida, which owns a complex of banks and industries, to divest itself of its nonbanking properties.

Despite the sweeping nature of the proposed changes in immigration policy, little trouble is anticipated in getting Senate approval.

The main controversy — whether to impose an immigration ceiling on the Western Hemisphere — was fought out in committee. A ceiling of 120,000 was written into the bill and there apparently will be no effort to remove it.

The issue was strongly contested in the House, which at the administration's insistence kept a ceiling off. The administration quickly capitulated to advocates of a ceiling in the Senate, however.

The main effect of the bill would be to end the 41-year-old system of basing immigration on the nationality of applicants. Instead, those countries outside the Western Hemisphere, which are now assigned individual quotas, would be treated equally under a total quota of 170,000.

In view of the collapse of administration efforts to block a Western Hemisphere ceiling, the House is expected to accept the Senate version when conferees meet to work out a mutually acceptable bill.

The Senate's foreign aid bill would give the administration $92 million less than the House appropriated for foreign aid, a marked departure from recent years when the Senate was counted on to restore deeper cuts made by the House.

Backed up on the House calendar are three bills that threaten difficulties for the leadership — one increasing the minimum wage to $1.75 an hour and greatly increasing its coverage, one granting home rule to the District of Columbia, and one granting big pay raises to federal workers — including members of Congress. Still in committee is the highway beautification bill on which the administration is demanding action.

What is the most important enterprise in Southeast Missouri?

If you think it is farming or manufacturing, you had better guess again.

It is school.

The painful, erratic changeover from daylight savings to central standard time proves it.

In the Spring when city councilmen's thoughts were diverted by other things they voted to turn the clocks back an hour on Oct. 31. This conforms to the St. Louis decision.

In late September no Bootheel city cares a whoop about what St. Louis is doing about any confusion resulting from the area operating by a different clock.

There is a headlong rush to revert to central standard time. Some communities already have moved the clock hands back. Others will Sunday. Sikeston changes Sept. 26. Daylight time by the end of the month will be just another memory of a peaceful summer gone by.

Why were the plans of last Spring cast aside in September?

Bootheel people either enjoyed or suffered through daylight time during the summer patiently and without too much complaint.

When school started there was a mighty uproar. The earth shook and trembled as if struck by a quake. There was a deafening shout of protest that sounded like the thunder of a violent electrical storm.

The reason?

Mothers disliked waking their children at the early hours required to get them on a bus for school. It was dark. The kids hated to get up. The mothers disliked it, too. Both squawked.

Industries, farming enterprises, business houses, stores, the offices of business and professional men and service establishments operated on daylight time during the summer. There was patience and forbearance.

The school started. Tolerance went out the window. Wow!

It may be the kids are pampered and spoiled. It may be that their mothers relish too much a soft easy life.

We'll leave those questions for other editorial writers to answer.

But daylight time and school don't go together in the Bootheel.

The death of few men involves the loss to humanity that marks the passing of Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

His life may have been the most important of our time. Only the perspective of history can fairly determine that.

He left the comforts of civilization to brave the African jungle, where he built a hospital with his own hands and endured primitive hardships.

He had carved a successful European career as a philosopher, theologian and musician. This he discarded to fulfill a promise at the age of 30 to direct himself to the "service of humanity." He then embarked on a seven-year study of medicine. In the steaming jungle he achieved a fame greater than that he cast aside.

With selfless devotion he pursued his goal of "reverence for life." It was the heart of his thought and work.

He could not allow himself to see any living thing hurt or starved if he could help it. He even was known to drop a little food from the table to the floor for the ants. He would step aside if an insect ran in the path ahead.

He even objected to the destruction of venomous snakes and noxious insects, which took sanctuary in his compound.

There were many facets to his career. He richly possessed an uncommon number of skills and talents. He was learned in esthetics, tropical zoology, anthropology and agriculture. He was a veterinarian, pharmacist, mechanic, draftsman, carpenter, boat builder, mason, gardener and dentist.

His greatest fame was achieved as a medical missionary. He interpreted Bach's music on the pipe organ. His studies of Jesus and the Apostle Paul gave him a high rank with theologians. He was a teacher.

An essentially modest man, he set an example which the world could follow with profit to all.

He shrugged off the praise heaped on him by his admirers. He dismissed the complaints of his critics with the disdain of a busy man.

A man as busy as Dr. Schweitzer has no time for gossip and criticism of others. It is a pity that more people aren't similarily lost in their work. There is too much idle chatter, gossip and criticism of others.

He has been called the greatest man of our times. He may well have been.

His contemporaries are fortunate to have lived in his time but Dr. Schweitzer belongs to the ages.

IT TICKLES US

Fashion designers may not realize it, but they may be working their way out of top paying careers.

With the trend in women's clothing coming down from the top and going up from the bottom, what happens when the two meet?

There's nothing left, if our calculations are right. So what is there to design?

Of course, we are pretty sure this won't happen outside of a nudist camp.

For instance, here's what the Standard area editor said following a visit to a nudist camp:

"Viewing a corral of fat steers is a lot more pleasant than seeing a yard full of naked people."

Don't forget turkey, peanut butter, grapes and frozen concentrated orange juice are in extremely plentiful supply this September, which should mean economical prices for you on all these food items.

A FARMER CAN SAVE $1,000

Did you know that a farmer with annual machinery expenses of $5,000 may be able to save up to $1,000 of that amount--which is the same thing as getting that much more profit--by careful machinery management? That's the way the experts figure it. And that, also, is one of the good reasons why a major oil company* has just issued a new colorful illustrated booklet called "Machinery Cost Guide".

This booklet recognizes the fact that a tighter cost-price squeeze is changing the farm picture, and that, as a result, today's farmers are doing some sharp pencil pushing to try to cut machinery costs without sacrificing any of the advantages machinery offers. The Guide makes a positive contribution to that good end. It tells the farmer where and how often to lubricate and which lubricants to use.

The fact that such a guide has been issued is in itself a commentary on the farmer's dependence on the oil industry for vast quantities of diverse fuels and lubricants--and on the oil industry's dependence on the farmer for a very substantial portion of its sales. And another fact the Guide stresses is of interest to us all. Today's farm worker produces enough food to feed 31 other persons--which means he is twice as efficient as his counterpart in 1945, a mere 20 years ago. And the superior farmer, with a highly-mechanized farm, can feed up to 200 persons. Advanced machinery, plus improved fuels and lubricants, plus farmer ingenuity, have combined to make that amazing advance possible.

It must be left to future historians to make a final assessment of the character and accomplishments of Adlai Ewing Stevenson.

He was too complex a man, the times in which he lived and worked are as yet so unsorted out, he fell so suddenly in full career, that we can do little more than mourn the loss of an immensely respected and valued public servant.

What marks Stevenson left on history are still obscure, as was the man himself to many Americans.

He was a politician, and at the same time a contradiction of the popular image of a politician. He was the despair of party bosses, yet won election to the governorship of Illinois in 1948 by the greatest landslide in that state's history.

It was, however, the only election he ever won.

His admirers saw in him the intelligence of Jefferson, the integrity of Lincoln and the idealism of Woodrow Wilson. To others he was an aloof and disturbingly superior man, imbued with an intellectual humor and seriousness many could not appreciate.

Born only a month after the 20th century began, Stevenson was one of the few men in our history who nearly reached the highest office in the land by not seeking it, at least in the beginning.

That was in 1952, when he was suddenly projected into the national limelight by his unexpected nomination for president by the Democratic party.

Only in recent years, since his appointment as ambassador to the United Nations by President Kennedy, have we come to realize that Adlai Stevenson was far more than the man who was defeated twice for the presidency.

Only now do we realize how long and how close and how vital was his association with the U.N., which he maintained, through every crisis that assailed it, was "the hope of the world."

He was involved with it from the very start, when in 1945 he was appointed special assistant to Secretary of State Stettinius to assist in the planning of the world body. In 1946-47, he served as a delegate to the General Assembly.

It was as ambassador, however, the post he held from 1961 until his death, that Stevenson's stature as a statesman of the highest rank and his eloquent fitness as spokesman and defender of his country and the free world became impressively evident.

TAXPAYER REVOLT APPROACHING

All around the country, the state legislatures have been meeting this year--to the dismay of many a humble taxpayer. For there is hardly a state that isn't searching for new or increased sources of revenue. Sales taxes, income taxes, property taxes, liquor and cigarette taxes, gasoline taxes -- the trend in all is upward.

So, the taxpayers may begin to pay much closer attention to what their legislators ask and want and do than has been the case in the past. According to Newsweek, "Together, the 50 states (and localities) will spend upwards of $70 billion this year (and are expected to match total Federal outlays by 1970) for programs and services that sometimes meet the test of adequacy but seldom the test of excellence."

The problem is one that may be described as a mixture of quantity and quality. On the one hand there is the matter of how much state and local government can and should do--and on the other the matter of how efficiently they do it. And there certainly is a limit to how much money can be bled from the taxpayers--a limit we are approaching if we haven't actually reached it.

It's time the taxpayer cast a wary and critical eye on the state house, the court house and the city hall, no less than the capital in Washington.

COMMUNIST PERSECUTION OF RELIGION

Rumors of persecution of Jews in Russia and Rumania had come to me and upon reading of the mobilization of Jewish forces by the Synagogue Council September 26, 1963, to crusade against anti-Semitism in the Soviet Union, I expressed my gratification to some close Jewish friends. They told me the campaign would "die on the vine."

Surprised with this opinion, I decided to join the crusade. I wrote Letters to the Editor and began accumulating, reproducing, and circulating all newspaper clippings I could find regarding the Synagogue Council Crusade. I thought a humanitarian movement should not be given the "silent treatment." At times it seemed a hopeless task to keep the crusade going, but I would find Senator Ribicoff (D-Conn.) or someone quoted in a good speech.

Finally, August 29, 1965, NBC-TV presented in Dallas an impressive thirty minute documentary "The Price of Silence" narrated by Edward G. Robinson who presented as witnesses Arthur Goldberg, U. S. Ambassador to the U. N., Senator Jacob Javits, Jan Peerce, and other notables. This NBC show was a great performance, dramatically describing the persecution of Jews in the USSR. I anticipated a glowing report from the communication media, but did not find it mentioned.

This is as strange as the aspect of large fortunes being channeled into foundations to subsidize clever writers to discredit people who oppose communism by picturing them as "anti-Semitic."

A week long meeting, which has received little publicity, is scheduled starting September 19 in Washington, termed National Eternal Light Vigil for Soviet Jewry. All Jews opposed to communistic atrocities will have a golden opportunity to join other religious leaders in condemning persecution in the Soviet Union and wherever else practiced. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

DAKAR -- When Lyndon Johnson was a restless vice president of the United States and John F. Kennedy wanted to keep him busy, he sent Lyndon to Senegal for the inauguration of its first president, Leopold Sedar Senghor. While here, Lyndon visited the nearby fishing village of Kayar, met a Senegalese fisherman who was paddling a cumbersome, wood-hewn canoe or piroque. Returning to America, the then Vice President sent the fisherman an outboard motor.

The gift did not make the headlines of the pickup truck given to the Pakistani camel driver, but probably it has been more productive. For a great many other Senegalese fishermen have now followed the example of President Johnson's friend and thus mechanized the fishing industry.

Lyndon Johnson is remembered pleasantly here. But his policy of massing military might in Viet Nam is undoing part of his earlier friendship. Furthermore it plays directly into the hands of the Chinese Communists in their campaign to penetrate this wealthy and relatively empty continent.

For the question continually asked by the Senegalese is: If President Johnson can send so many troops halfway around the world to Viet Nam, why can't he send troops to Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Louisiana, to protect the Negroes from being mobbed and murdered?

These states, it's pointed out, are much closer than Viet Nam and Negroes are American citizens. Why can't they be protected?

African Negroes are convinced that it's proof of race prejudice that American troops are sent all the way to Saigon, yet aren't sent a few miles to protect Negroes.

HARD TO EXPLAIN

With some difficulty you can explain to the African intellectuals that states rights put the burden of police protection on the individual states and that only in rare cases are federal troops sent into a state. You explain that even in the District of Columbia the Federal Government does not intervene to protect the white population from the growing wave of Negro crime. But though you can make a slight dent on the professors and journalists, it's absolutely impossible to get your points across to great mass of Africans.

No less a persuasive person than Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme Court tried to convince an African group at the American embassy on one occasion with only mediocre success.

The Johnson Administration otherwise is doing an excellent job through Ambassador Mercer Cook, former professor at Howard University, a Negro, and one of the most gifted envoys the State Department has sent to Africa. He was a fellow student with President Senghor when they were both youngsters in Paris, also went to school with other members of the Senegalese cabinet; has translated one of the President's books "On African Socialism" from French into English.

President Senghor has vigorously rejected socialism of the Peking variety, but wrote --along with five volumes of poetry -- two philosophical essays on African socialism, which Ambassador Cook translated.

Ambassador Cook and his expert U. S. information aide, Ted Tanen, are now working on the American contribution to the Negro Arts Festival to be held in Dakar next April. They hope to persuade such famous Negro artists as Sammy Davis, Jr., Harry Belafonte and Dizzy Gillespie to come to Dakar at that time. The late Adlai Stevenson had accepted the chairmanship of the American committee for the Negro Arts Festival, and Ambassador Cook is hoping to draft either Marian Anderson or Sammy Davis, Jr., to replace him.

PEANUTS AND PROSPERITY

However, the problems indirectly facing them, and directly facing President Senghor--entirely aside from Viet Nam--are considerable.

No. 1 Problem is the fact that Senegal is a one-crop country. Its economy rests entirely on peanuts. Almost every farmer plants peanuts, and will not plant enough potatoes or wheat to support the country. Food must be imported. This is because France pays a high subsidy for peanuts.

The United States, with its own plentiful peanut crop, doesn't import from Senegal, and Sen. Herman Talmadge of peanut - producing Georgia would probably raise cain if it tried.

So one thing Senegal needs if it is to be kept from swinging into the zone of Chinese influence is a team of American farm experts with the patience and perseverance to teach crop diversification.

The beautiful University of Dakar, French - built and French-financed, has a crowded law school, but no school of agriculture. It also has a school of medicine--relatively empty. It takes too long to graduate in medicine.

No. 2 Problem is the fact that French West Africa never should have been cut up into little independent republics. This was not the fault of the French, but of Nationalist African ambition. Every little segment of the French colonial system boasting a somewhat different culture, history of language insisted on becoming independent, with its own flag, its own cabinet, and its own ambassadors abroad.

This not only saddled each small country with extra expense, but also cut up the once interdependent economy. As a result, most of the new republics are starving.

Like the splitting up of the old Austro-Hungarian empire after World War I, national pride has come before economic self-sufficiency; and just as the plight of Austria and Czechoslovakia, after World War I, led to Hitler's invasion of those two countries, the economic plight of dismembered French West Africa is leading to the penetration by Chinese Communism.

Dakar, the once busy capital of French West Africa, is still beautiful, but not busy. Like Vienna, onetime capital of the Austro-Hungarian empire between 1920 and 1930, it is stagnant and politically restless.

The railroad from Dakar up to Mali used to be a busy artery of commerce. But Mali has dropped out of the French currency system; its money is weak, and Senegal doesn't relish Mali money to pay either for port dues or railroad freight. With Mali's president just returned from Peking an enthusiastic Chinese booster, it seems only a matter of time before that small, semi-desert country falls into the hands of Chinese Communism.

Senegal, under the leadership of President Senghor will hold out longer, perhaps indefinitely. This will depend on more efficiency from its poet-president, more financial support from President De Gaulle in Paris and more technical assistance from President Johnson in Washington. LBJ, when vice president, started the mechanization of the fishing industry. If he can follow this up with diversifying the farming industry, this key country of Africa, almost as close to New York as London, can be saved.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Inside Story of Reuther-Meany Fund Sizzling as Labor's High Command Meets.

New York: -- A ferry sank in the Gulf of Gabes off Tunisia last summer, and the political waves churned up by the loss of lives are now billowing over a hostelry here, where American labor's high command is meeting.

If that ferry had not sunk there might not now be a low-key, but tough, showdown between maverick Walter Reuther and the major-domo of the House of Labor, George Meany. But the ship went down and the feud sprang up just at the moment when the high command is selecting some 10 to 12 labor leaders to replace veterans on the Executive Council.

The newcomers will help shape labor policy for decades. So though unknown now, they'll have heavy impact on the nation.

The ferry in this script went down between Sfax and the Kerkennah Islands. It was owned by a cooperative firm. On its board of directors was Habib Achour, then general secretary of the General Federation of Tunisian Workers. After the dead and missing were counted, it was discovered that the cooperative organization had not kept its insurance in order.

There was an outcry from the bereaved. Soon the Tunisian government deprived Achour of his parliamentary immunity. On July 3 he was arrested and heaved into the brig at Sfax.

This was just a few days before Meany, Reuther and almost a score of U. S. labor chiefs were scheduled to take their seats at an international labor congress in Amsterdam. Though this gathering of world leaders, speaking for over 60 million workers, generally receives little news coverage, it does affect the course of nations.

When Meany and company met there in the first U. S. closed caucus to decide policy, as is traditional at conventions of all kinds the world over, they discussed the Tunisian affair.

Their friend Achour would be kept in jail by Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba--whom the American labor chiefs had once helped get out of a French prison.

Thus the imprisonment of their friend Achour was doubly irritating. Furthermore, he should have been leading the Tunisian labor delegation. But President Bourguiba would not release him. Instead there was another delegation to replace Achour and his loyal colleagues.

The American caucus unanimously decided to fight the seating of the new delegation. That unanimity included Walter Reuther's vote, too.

When the time came for a public vote at the congress, Reuther bolted. He did not advise Meany or others in the delegation. The auto union chief simply took public issue with Meany, who was head of the U. S. labor delegation, and voted against its position.

Meany's previous frank talk about the Socialists and cookie-pushers amongst the foreign labor leaders had not exactly made him the most popular man there before the sessions opened. Thus, he lost face in the global congress as the famed Reuther took open issue.

It was as though President Johnson had cast a bloc vote in the United Nations on some issue and Hubert Humphrey had arisen to tally against him.

The next American caucus was a loud one. The big seafarers' leader Paul Hall, Meany's staunch ally, charged that their national chief had been positioned. Reuther said he had voted according to his conscience, Hall, who never will be forgiven, retorted that it was more indigestion than conscience. The verbiage was slightly different.

Until that labor congress Reuther and Meany had gotten on well. For the first time there seemed to be an alliance between the hard-hitting traditionalist Meany and the classically militant Reuther.

They had not exactly been Damon and Pythias. But there had been unity. The ferry boat saga smashed that,-- permanently, according to insiders. The real issue, of course, had been the breaking of caucus discipline and the egg-on-the-face position of the rest of the delegation.

Reuther and Meany have met since. They ran into each other at a White House Presidential stag dinner and in labor's national headquarters. Nobody hit anybody. There were pleasantries.

But behind the closed doors of labor's high command sessions here the pleasantries will be gone, as vital policies affecting the movement and the nation are hammered out.

What is the most important enterprise in Southeast Missouri?

If you think it is farming or manufacturing, you had better guess again.

It is school.

The painful, erratic changeover from daylight savings to central standard time proves it.

In the Spring when city councilmen's thoughts were diverted by other things they voted to turn the clocks back an hour on Oct. 31. This conforms to the St. Louis decision.

In late September no Bootheel city cares a whoop about what St. Louis is doing about any confusion resulting from the area operating by a different clock.

There is a headlong rush to revert to central standard time. Some communities already have moved the clock hands back. Others will Sunday. Sikeston changes Sept. 26. Daylight time by the end of the month will be just another memory of a peaceful summer gone by.

Why were the plans of last Spring cast aside in September?

Bootheel people either enjoyed or suffered through daylight time during the summer patiently and without too much complaint.

When school started there was a mighty uproar. The earth shook and trembled as if struck by a quake. There was a deafening shout of protest that sounded like the thunder of a violent electrical storm.

The reason?

Mothers disliked waking their children at the early hours required to get them on a bus for school. It was dark. The kids hated to get up. The mothers disliked it, too. Both squawked.

Industries, farming enterprises, business houses, stores, the offices of business and professional men and service establishments operated on daylight time during the summer. There was patience and forbearance.

The school started. Tolerance went out the window. Wow!

It may be the kids are pampered and spoiled. It may be that their mothers relish too much a soft easy life.

We'll leave those questions for other editorial writers to answer.

But daylight time and school don't go together in the Bootheel.

The death of few men involves the loss to humanity that marks the passing of Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

His life may have been the most important of our time. Only the perspective of history can fairly determine that.

He left the comforts of civilization to brave the African jungle, where he built a hospital with his own hands and endured primitive hardships.

He had carved a successful European career as a philosopher, theologian and musician. This he discarded to fulfill a promise at the age of 30 to direct himself to the "service of humanity." He then embarked on a seven-year study of medicine. In the steaming jungle he achieved a fame greater than that he cast aside.

With selfless devotion he pursued his goal of "reverence for life." It was the heart of his thought and work.

He could not allow himself to see any living thing hurt or starved if he could help it. He even was known to drop a little food from the table to the floor for the ants. He would step aside if an insect ran in the path ahead.

He even objected to the destruction of venomous snakes and noxious insects, which took sanctuary in his compound.

There were many facets to his career. He richly possessed an uncommon number of skills and talents. He was learned in esthetics, tropical zoology, anthropology and agriculture. He was a veterinarian, pharmacist, mechanic, draftsman, carpenter, boat builder, mason, gardener and dentist.

His greatest fame was achieved as a medical missionary. He interpreted Bach's music on the pipe organ. His studies of Jesus and the Apostle Paul gave him a high rank with theologians. He was a teacher.

An essentially modest man, he set an example which the world could follow with profit to all.

He shrugged off the praise heaped on him by his admirers. He dismissed the complaints of his critics with the disdain of a busy man.

A man as busy as Dr. Schweitzer has no time for gossip and criticism of others. It is a pity that more people aren't similarily lost in their work. There is too much idle chatter, gossip and criticism of others.

He has been called the greatest man of our times. He may well have been.

His contemporaries are fortunate to have lived in his time but Dr. Schweitzer belongs to the ages.

With the trend in women's clothing coming down from the top and going up from the bottom, what happens when the two meet?

There's nothing left, if our calculations are right. So what is there to design?

Of course, we are pretty sure this won't happen outside of a nudist camp.

For instance, here's what the Standard area editor said following a visit to a nudist camp:

"Viewing a corral of fat steers is a lot more pleasant than seeing a yard full of naked people."

Don't forget turkey, peanut butter, grapes and frozen concentrated orange juice are in extremely plentiful supply this September, which should mean economical prices for you on all these food items.

A FARMER CAN SAVE $1,000

Did you know that a farmer with annual machinery expenses of $5,000 may be able to save up to $1,000 of that amount--which is the same thing as getting that much more profit--by careful machinery management? That's the way the experts figure it. And that, also, is one of the good reasons why a major oil company* has just issued a new colorful illustrated booklet called "Machinery Cost Guide".

This booklet recognizes the fact that a tighter cost-price squeeze is changing the farm picture, and that, as a result, today's farmers are doing some sharp pencil pushing to try to cut machinery costs without sacrificing any of the advantages machinery offers. The Guide makes a positive contribution to that good end. It tells the farmer where and how often to lubricate and which lubricants to use.

The fact that such a guide has been issued is in itself a commentary on the farmer's dependence on the oil industry for vast quantities of diverse fuels and lubricants--and on the oil industry's dependence on the farmer for a very substantial portion of its sales. And another fact the Guide stresses is of interest to us all. Today's farm worker produces enough food to feed 31 other persons--which means he is twice as efficient as his counterpart in 1945, a mere 20 years ago. And the superior farmer, with a highly-mechanized farm, can feed up to 200 persons. Advanced machinery, plus improved fuels and lubricants, plus farmer ingenuity, have combined to make that amazing advance possible.

It must be left to future historians to make a final assessment of the character and accomplishments of Adlai Ewing Stevenson.

He was too complex a man, the times in which he lived and worked are as yet so unsorted out, he fell so suddenly in full career, that we can do little more than mourn the loss of an immensely respected and valued public servant.

What marks Stevenson left on history are still obscure, as was the man himself to many Americans.

He was a politician, and at the same time a contradiction of the popular image of a politician. He was the despair of party bosses, yet won election to the governorship of Illinois in 1948 by the greatest landslide in that state's history.

It was, however, the only election he ever won.

His admirers saw in him the intelligence of Jefferson, the integrity of Lincoln and the idealism of Woodrow Wilson. To others he was an aloof and disturbingly superior man, imbued with an intellectual humor and seriousness many could not appreciate.

Born only a month after the 20th century began, Stevenson was one of the few men in our history who nearly reached the highest office in the land by not seeking it, at least in the beginning.

That was in 1952, when he was suddenly projected into the national limelight by his unexpected nomination for president by the Democratic party.

Only in recent years, since his appointment as ambassador to the United Nations by President Kennedy, have we come to realize that Adlai Stevenson was far more than the man who was defeated twice for the presidency.

Only now do we realize how long and how close and how vital was his association with the U.N., which he maintained, through every crisis that assailed it, was "the hope of the world."

He was involved with it from the very start, when in 1945 he was appointed special assistant to Secretary of State Stettinius to assist in the planning of the world body. In 1946-47, he served as a delegate to the General Assembly.

It was as ambassador, however, the post he held from 1961 until his death, that Stevenson's stature as a statesman of the highest rank and his eloquent fitness as spokesman and defender of his country and the free world became impressively evident.

TAXPAYER REVOLT APPROACHING

All around the country, the state legislatures have been meeting this year--to the dismay of many a humble taxpayer. For there is hardly a state that isn't searching for new or increased sources of revenue. Sales taxes, income taxes, property taxes, liquor and cigarette taxes, gasoline taxes -- the trend in all is upward.

So, the taxpayers may begin to pay much closer attention to what their legislators ask and want and do than has been the case in the past. According to Newsweek, "Together, the 50 states (and localities) will spend upwards of $70 billion this year (and are expected to match total Federal outlays by 1970) for programs and services that sometimes meet the test of adequacy but seldom the test of excellence."

The problem is one that may be described as a mixture of quantity and quality. I thought a humanitarian movement should not be given the "silent treatment." At times it seemed a hopeless task to keep the crusade going, but I would find Senator Ribicoff (D-Conn.) or someone quoted in a good speech.

Finally, August 29, 1965, NBC-TV presented in Dallas an impressive thirty minute documentary "The Price of Silence" narrated by Edward G. Robinson who presented as witnesses Arthur Goldberg, U. S. Ambassador to the U. N., Senator Jacob Javits, Jan Peerce, and other notables. This NBC show was a great performance, dramatically describing the persecution of Jews in the USSR. I anticipated a glowing report from the communication media, but did not find it mentioned.

This is as strange as the aspect of large fortunes being channeled into foundations to subsidize clever writers to discredit people who oppose communism by picturing them as "anti-Semitic."

A week long meeting, which has received little publicity, is scheduled starting September 19 in Washington, termed National Eternal Light Vigil for Soviet Jewry. All Jews opposed to communistic atrocities will have a golden opportunity to join other religious leaders in condemning persecution in the Soviet Union and wherever else practiced. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of Drew Pearson's columns on the struggle for Communist control of the wealth of Africa.)

DAKAR -- When Lyndon Johnson was a restless vice president of the United States and John F. Kennedy wanted to keep him busy, he sent Lyndon to Senegal for the inauguration of its first president, Leopold Sedar Senghor. While here, Lyndon visited the nearby fishing village of Kayar, met a Senegalese fisherman who was paddling a cumbersome, wood-hewn canoe or piroque. Returning to America, the then Vice President sent the fisherman an outboard motor.

The gift did not make the headlines of the pickup truck given to the Pakistani camel driver, but probably it has been more productive. For a great many other Senegalese fishermen have now followed the example of President Johnson's friend and thus mechanized the fishing industry.

Lyndon Johnson is remembered pleasantly here. But his policy of massing military might in Viet Nam is undoing part of his earlier friendship. Furthermore it plays directly into the hands of the Chinese Communists in their campaign to penetrate this wealthy and relatively empty continent.

For the question continually asked by the Senegalese is: If President Johnson can send so many troops halfway around the world to Viet Nam, why can't he send troops to Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Louisiana, to protect the Negroes from being mobbed and murdered?

These states, it's pointed out, are much closer than Viet Nam and Negroes are American citizens. Why can't they be protected?

African Negroes are convinced that it's proof of race prejudice that American troops are sent all the way to Saigon, yet aren't sent a few miles to protect Negroes.

HARD TO EXPLAIN

With some difficulty you can explain to the African intellectuals that states rights put the burden of police protection on the individual states and that only in rare cases are federal troops sent into a state. You explain that even in the District of Columbia the Federal Government does not intervene to protect the white population from the growing wave of Negro crime. But though you can make a slight dent on the professors and journalists, it's absolutely impossible to get your points across to great mass of Africans.

No less a persuasive person than Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme Court tried to convince an African group at the American embassy on one occasion with only mediocre success.

The Johnson Administration otherwise is doing an excellent job through Ambassador Mercer Cook, former professor at Howard University, a Negro, and one of the most gifted envoys the State Department has sent to Africa. He was a fellow student with President Senghor when they were both youngsters in Paris, also went to school with other members of the Senegalese cabinet; has translated one of the President's books "On African Socialism" from French into English.

President Senghor has vigorously rejected socialism of the Peking variety, but wrote --along with five volumes of poetry -- two philosophical essays on African socialism, which Ambassador Cook translated.

Ambassador Cook and his expert U. S. information aide, Ted Tanen, are now working on the American contribution to the Negro Arts Festival to be held in Dakar next April. They hope to persuade such famous Negro artists as Sammy Davis, Jr., Harry Belafonte and Dizzy Gillespie to come to Dakar at that time. The late Adlai Stevenson had accepted the chairmanship of the American committee for the Negro Arts Festival, and Ambassador Cook is hoping to draft either Marian Anderson or Sammy Davis, Jr., to replace him.

PEANUTS AND PROSPERITY

However, the problems indirectly facing them, and directly facing President Senghor--entirely aside from Viet Nam--are considerable.

No. 1 Problem is the fact that Senegal is a one-crop country. Its economy rests entirely on peanuts. Almost every farmer plants peanuts, and will not plant enough potatoes or wheat to support the country. Food must be imported. This is because France pays a high subsidy for peanuts.

The United States, with its own plentiful peanut crop, doesn't import from Senegal, and Sen. Herman Talmadge of peanut - producing Georgia would probably raise cain if it tried.

So one thing Senegal needs if it is to be kept from swinging into the zone of Chinese influence is a team of American farm experts with the patience and perseverance to teach crop diversification.

The beautiful University of Dakar, French - built and French-financed, has a crowded law school, but no school of agriculture. It also has a school of medicine--relatively empty. It takes too long to graduate in medicine.

No. 2 Problem is the fact that French West Africa never should have been cut up into little independent republics. This was not the fault of the French, but of Nationalist African ambition. Every little segment of the French colonial system boasting a somewhat different culture, history of language insisted on becoming independent, with its own flag, its own cabinet, and its own ambassadors abroad.

This not only saddled each small country with extra expense, but also cut up the once interdependent economy. As a result, most of the new republics are starving.

Like the splitting up of the old Austro-Hungarian empire after World War I, national pride has come before economic self-sufficiency; and just as the plight of Austria and Czechoslovakia, after World War I, led to Hitler's invasion of those two countries, the economic plight of dismembered French West Africa is leading to the penetration by Chinese Communism.

Dakar, the once busy capital of French West Africa, is still beautiful, but not busy. Like Vienna, onetime capital of the Austro-Hungarian empire between 1920 and 1930, it is stagnant and politically restless.

The railroad from Dakar up to Mali used to be a busy artery of commerce. But Mali has dropped out of the French currency system; its money is weak, and Senegal doesn't relish Mali money to pay either for port dues or railroad freight. With Mali's president just returned from Peking an enthusiastic Chinese booster, it seems only a matter of time before that small, semi-desert country falls into the hands of Chinese Communism.

Senegal, under the leadership of President Senghor will hold out longer, perhaps indefinitely. This will depend on more efficiency from its poet-president, more financial support from President De Gaulle in Paris and more technical assistance from President Johnson in Washington. LBJ, when vice president, started the mechanization of the fishing industry. If he can follow this up with diversifying the farming industry, this key country of Africa, almost as close to New York as London, can be saved.

NEW YORK AP -- things a columnist wouldn't know if he didn't open his mail: America now has some 13,000 people aged 100 years or older. That's only one for every 15,000 persons.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Inside Story of Reuther-Meany Fund Sizzling as Labor's High Command Meets.

New York: -- A ferry sank in the Gulf of Gabes off Tunisia last summer, and the political waves churned up by the loss of lives are now billowing over a hostelry here, where American labor's high command is meeting.

If that ferry had not sunk there might not now be a low-key, but tough, showdown between maverick Walter Reuther and the major-domo of the House of Labor, George Meany. But the ship went down and the feud sprang up just at the moment when the high command is selecting some 10 to 12 labor leaders to replace veterans on the Executive Council.

The newcomers will help shape labor policy for decades. So though unknown now, they'll have heavy impact on the nation.

The ferry in this script went down between Sfax and the Kerkennah Islands. It was owned by a cooperative firm. On its board of directors was Habib Achour, then general secretary of the General Federation of Tunisian Workers. After the dead and missing were counted, it was discovered that the cooperative organization had not kept its insurance in order.

There was an outcry from the bereaved. Soon the Tunisian government deprived Achour of his parliamentary immunity. On July 3 he was arrested and heaved into the brig at Sfax.

This was just a few days before Meany, Reuther and almost a score of U. S. labor chiefs were scheduled to take their seats at an international labor congress in Amsterdam. Though this gathering of world leaders, speaking for over 60 million workers, generally receives little news coverage, it does affect the course of nations.

When Meany and company met there in the first U. S. closed caucus to decide policy, as is traditional at conventions of all kinds the world over, they discussed the Tunisian affair.

Their friend Achour would be kept in jail by Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba--whom the American labor chiefs had once helped get out of a French prison.

Thus the imprisonment of their friend Achour was doubly irritating. Furthermore, he should have been leading the Tunisian labor delegation. But President Bourguiba would not release him. Instead there was another delegation to replace Achour and his loyal colleagues.

The American caucus unanimously decided to fight the seating of the new delegation. That unanimity included Walter Reuther's vote, too.

When the time came for a public vote at the congress, Reuther bolted. He did not advise Meany or others in the delegation. The auto union chief simply took public issue with Meany, who was head of the U. S. labor delegation, and voted against its position.

Meany's previous frank talk about the Socialists and cookie-pushers amongst the foreign labor leaders had not exactly made him the most popular man there before the sessions opened. Thus, he lost face in the global congress as the famed Reuther took open issue.

It was as though President Johnson had cast a bloc vote in the United Nations on some issue and Hubert Humphrey had arisen to tally against him.

The next American caucus was a loud one. The big seafarers' leader Paul Hall, Meany's staunch ally, charged that their national chief had been positioned. Reuther said he had voted according to his conscience, Hall, who never will be forgiven, retorted that it was more indigestion than conscience. The verbiage was slightly different.

Until that labor congress Reuther and Meany had gotten on well. For the first time there seemed to be an alliance between the hard-hitting traditionalist Meany and the classically militant Reuther.

They had not exactly been Damon and Pythias. But there had been unity. The ferry boat saga smashed that -- permanently, according to insiders. The real issue, of course, had been the breaking of caucus discipline and the egg-on-the-face position of the rest of the delegation.

Reuther and Meany have met since. They ran into each other at a White House Presidential stag dinner and in labor's national headquarters. Nobody hit anybody. There were pleasantries.

But behind the closed doors of labor's high command sessions here the pleasantries will be gone, as vital policies affecting the movement and the nation are hammered out.

Concert Association Plans Start Toward Climax

The Community Room of First National Bank was a scene of considerable activity of the Delta Community Concert Association Thursday morning as the division chairmen and newly recruited workers for the coming membership campaign gathered to receive their kits of materials, and final instructions for the concentrated drive which will begin on September 28 with workers contacting present members for their renewals. It will culminate on October 9 with an accumulation of enough old and new memberships to provide at least one additional major concert attraction or two. Three selections have already been made for this 1965-66 season which would provide fine entertainment. Once more the board of directors voted to retain the very modest fees for local memberships in the face of rising costs, and to concentrate on adding enough new members to the organization to provide the fine, high quality concerts which are traditional with the Delta Community Concert Association.

The three programs announced for this season's agenda are outstanding concert attractions, and are in great demand.

Always received with acclaim by audiences wherever they appear, the Teltschik brothers from Texas with their two pianos will pause on another triumphant tour to renew old friends made in Southeast Missouri nine years ago. The date many Community Concert Association members, who heard them then, will mark "MUST save" is November 3. The Tipton Trio is not unknown in this part of the world although this is the first appearance of the group in the Sikeston area. Many members will remember with delight the evening of pleasure provided by Mr. and Mrs. Tipton when they brought the excellent group of musicians organized by Mr. Tipton from among his fellow-players in the St. Louis Symphony, and known as "Music for Tonight". The Tipton Trio promises just as great a treat, on April 30.

Not previously announced "The Golden Curtain Quartet" will appear on February 26. Taking its name from the fabulous "Golden Curtain" of the Metropolitan House, this group of artists who, although young, have already attained a solid foothold on the way up, was created and is directed and produced by the renowned Kurt Adler, conductor of the Metropolitan Opera. The roster of stars of "Metropolitan" contains many names which those who have heard the Golden Curtain Quartet in past years will recognize.

Presenting a delightful program ranging from grand opera to the hits of Boradway, the Golden Curtain Quartet has the unique opportunity of according its audience a sense of the context of musical excerpts which cannot be attained by a solo artist. This is truly one of the most attractive enesembles to be heard today.

Membership in the Delta Community Concert Association is a must if you would be sure of hearing any of these fine concerts or any additional ones added on October 9 at the conclusion of the membership drive. There will be no admissions sold after that time in compliance with the tenets of Community Concerts and Columbia Artists Bureau with which our Delta Association is affiliated.

These memberships may be obtained from any of the officers of the Association, at campaign headquarters in Wilcoxson's Furniture Store during Campaign week, Oct. 5-9, or from any of the workers who were honored at the "Kit Coffee" held Thursday morning at the Community Room of the First National Bank, as follows: Mrs. Emma Owen, Mrs. Jack Mitchell, Mrs. Bob Scott, Mrs. Howard Grant, Mrs. A. B. Smith, Mrs. Alex Waters, Jr., Mrs. Mary Lea, Mrs. John Carr, Mrs. T. E. Campbell, Mrs. Lenore Godsey, Mrs. Jesse Page, Mrs. Harold Hill, Mrs. Jack Hogan, Mrs. Max Heeb, Mrs. Marietta Whitworth, Mrs. Joel Montgomery, Mrs. Joe McCord, Mrs. Paul Hill, Mrs. Irma Allen, Mrs. Keith Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Beaver, Richard Powell, Ed Carson, Mr. and Mrs. Garwood Sharp, Mrs. Willard Spenser, Mrs. James Abernathy, Mrs. Burt H. Rowe, Sr., Mrs. David Croom, Mrs. Howard Napier, Mrs. Jerry Aufdenberg, and in Charleston any members of the Tuesday Music Club, headed by Mrs. Louise Ogilvie, Mrs. John Nunnelee, with Mrs. Art Walhausen, Sr., in charge of Charleston publicity.

AAUW Has Dinner Meeting

The local chapter of the American Association of University Women met for a dinner meeting Tuesday evening at the Holiday Inn. This was the first meeting for the 1965-66 year.

After a delicious meal, the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Mildred Robinson, and the program for the first part of the year's study was presented by Mrs. Oma DeJarnett. The first meetings will center around the study of "Revolution in Modern China." The goal of these meetings will be to gain a better understanding of the nature and aims of the Chinese People's Republic, which consists of 100,000,000 of the world's population. To present an informative and most interesting preview of the study, Mrs. Helen Reuber gave a review of the book "The Eighth Moon" by Betty Lord which records the actual experiences of her sister, San-San, born in 1945 and raised in modern China. This book presents the first intimate view of the life of young people in China. It is the story of the rise of Communism in China.

The new members were welcomed to the group, Rovena Hillsman and Lillian Oakes. Other business consisted of approving the third Tuesday of each month as meeting dates. The next meeting will be October 19 with Mrs. Mildred Robinson and Mrs. Catherine Matthews as hostesses.

Present were Wayburne Steck, Oma DeJarnett, Mary Ellen Bridges, Cecile Green, Callie Burket, Electa O'Hara, Margaret Cain, Joann Lemmons, Ella Mae Wilkins, Almarietta Sidwell, Mrs. Nell Matthews, Helen Reuber, Mildred Robinson, Rovenna Hillsman, Lillian Oakes, and one guest, Lucile Mount.

ANN LANDERS Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am a plastic surgeon who has been a faithful reader of your column for a long time. I've been tempted to write to you concerning matters that fall within my professional province. Your advice to the flat-chested woman who wanted to have her inadequate bosom built up by surgery provided the final stimulus.

You should understand, Ann Landers, that a woman's image of herself is extremely important to her emotional well-being. If this image is a poor one the woman may become withdrawn and introverted. Some women don't mind being flat-chested but others become depressed and serious personality problems result.

You say, "Why subject yourself to surgery when a $2 purchase in a lingerie store can produce the desired results?" Have you ever seen one of those $2 purchases pop out of a bathing suit and float on top of the pool? Furthermore a $2 purchase will not permit a woman to wear a low-cut evening gown. The "purchases" slip and slide and sometimes they fall out.

Plastic surgeons now use jelly-like implants to build up bosoms. This produces a natural appearance and the operation is relatively simple. The degree of success is extremely high and the women love it.

Why don't you consult with specialists, and learn the wonders of plastic surgery? Yours Truly, TAMPA PLASTIC SURGEON

Dear Surgeon: If you have been reading my column for years you should know I'm well aware of the wonders of plastic surgery and that I've made millions of others aware of it, too.

In the very column you attack I wrote: "Once upon a time people had to play the hand nature dealt them because they had no choice. Today, surgeons can uncross eyes, remove pocks and scars, reshape noses, rebuild underslung jaws and make people feel better about themselves. I am all for it."

My position on surgery to build up bosoms is unchanged. The plastic surgeons with whom I consult tell me the silicone implants (you can them jelly-like) have been used successfully in a great many cases. However, in some patients, the implants have produced breast tumors. I would not advise any reader, no matter how depressed over a flat chest, to take such a foolish chance. (P. S. The $2 falsies do not slip or fall out when sewn into a bathing suit or evening gown. And the new padded bras are better than ever.)

Dear Ann Landers: I married a divorced man. I knew life would not be a bowl of cherries but I never expected to choke on so many pits. The problem is Art's former wife. Ellen is determined to be part of his family and I'm sorry to say she is succeeding.

Whenever we go to my mother-in law's apartment Ellen is there. She has also become a close friend of Art's sister and gets herself invited to every family affair. The shrewd little she-devil has even managed to become friendly with my own sister.

Neither Art nor I is confortable in Ellen's presence. She is forever referring to incidents from the past. Sometimes I get the feeling she has not yet accepted the fact that she and Art are no longer married.

Is it fair for Art's family to continue to be friendly to Ellen now that she is divorced? Should I ask Art to order them to stop including her? NUMBER TWO

Dear Two: Art has no right to determine for his family either their friends or acquaintances. He can, however, ask them not to include you and Art when they have invited Ellen. And I suggest you do just that.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong. Who should set the necking limits--the boy or girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex-- Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems.

Concert Association Plans Start Toward Climax

The Community Room of First National Bank was a scene of considerable activity of the Delta Community Concert Association Thursday morning as the division chairmen and newly recruited workers for the coming membership campaign gathered to receive their kits of materials, and final instructions for the concentrated drive which will begin on September 28 with workers contacting present members for their renewals. It will culminate on October 9 with an accumulation of enough old and new memberships to provide at least one additional major concert attraction or two. Three selections have already been made for this 1965-66 season which would provide fine entertainment. Once more the board of directors voted to retain the very modest fees for local memberships in the face of rising costs, and to concentrate on adding enough new members to the organization to provide the fine, high quality concerts which are traditional with the Delta Community Concert Association.

The three programs announced for this season's agenda are outstanding concert attractions, and are in great demand.

Always received with acclaim by audiences wherever they appear, the Teltschik brothers from Texas with their two pianos will pause on another triumphant tour to renew old friends made in Southeast Missouri nine years ago. The date many Community Concert Association members, who heard them then, will mark "MUST save" is November 3. The Tipton Trio is not unknown in this part of the world although this is the first appearance of the group in the Sikeston area. Many members will remember with delight the evening of pleasure provided by Mr. and Mrs. Tipton when they brought the excellent group of musicians organized by Mr. Tipton from among his fellow-players in the St. Louis Symphony, and known as "Music for Tonight". The Tipton Trio promises just as great a treat, on April 30.

Not previously announced "The Golden Curtain Quartet" will appear on February 26. Taking its name from the fabulous "Golden Curtain" of the Metropolitan House, this group of artists who, although young, have already attained a solid foothold on the way up, was created and is directed and produced by the renowned Kurt Adler, conductor of the Metropolitan Opera. The roster of stars of "Metropolitan" contains many names which those who have heard the Golden Curtain Quartet in past years will recognize.

Presenting a delightful program ranging from grand opera to the hits of Boradway, the Golden Curtain Quartet has the unique opportunity of according its audience a sense of the context of musical excerpts which cannot be attained by a solo artist. This is truly one of the most attractive enesembles to be heard today.

Membership in the Delta Community Concert Association is a must if you would be sure of hearing any of these fine concerts or any additional ones added on October 9 at the conclusion of the membership drive. There will be no admissions sold after that time in compliance with the tenets of Community Concerts and Columbia Artists Bureau with which our Delta Association is affiliated.

These memberships may be obtained from any of the officers of the Association, at campaign headquarters in Wilcoxson's Furniture Store during Campaign week, Oct. 5-9, or from any of the workers who were honored at the "Kit Coffee" held Thursday morning at the Community Room of the First National Bank, as follows: Mrs. Emma Owen, Mrs. Jack Mitchell, Mrs. Bob Scott, Mrs. Howard Grant, Mrs. A. B. Smith, Mrs. Alex Waters, Jr., Mrs. Mary Lea, Mrs. John Carr, Mrs. T. E. Campbell, Mrs. Lenore Godsey, Mrs. Jesse Page, Mrs. Harold Hill, Mrs. Jack Hogan, Mrs. Max Heeb, Mrs. Marietta Whitworth, Mrs. Joel Montgomery, Mrs. Joe McCord, Mrs. Paul Hill, Mrs. Irma Allen, Mrs. Keith Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Beaver, Richard Powell, Ed Carson, Mr. and Mrs. Garwood Sharp, Mrs. Willard Spenser, Mrs. James Abernathy, Mrs. Burt H. Rowe, Sr., Mrs. David Croom, Mrs. Howard Napier, Mrs. Jerry Aufdenberg, and in Charleston any members of the Tuesday Music Club, headed by Mrs. Louise Ogilvie, Mrs. John Nunnelee, with Mrs. Art Walhausen, Sr., in charge of Charleston publicity.

The local chapter of the American Association of University Women met for a dinner meeting Tuesday evening at the Holiday Inn. This was the first meeting for the 1965-66 year.

After a delicious meal, the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Mildred Robinson, and the program for the first part of the year's study was presented by Mrs. Oma DeJarnett. The first meetings will center around the study of "Revolution in Modern China." The goal of these meetings will be to gain a better understanding of the nature and aims of the Chinese People's Republic, which consists of 100,000,000 of the world's population. To present an informative and most interesting preview of the study, Mrs. Helen Reuber gave a review of the book "The Eighth Moon" by Betty Lord which records the actual experiences of her sister, San-San, born in 1945 and raised in modern China. This book presents the first intimate view of the life of young people in China. It is the story of the rise of Communism in China.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am a plastic surgeon who has been a faithful reader of your column for a long time. I've been tempted to write to you concerning matters that fall within my professional province. Your advice to the flat-chested woman who wanted to have her inadequate bosom built up by surgery provided the final stimulus.

You should understand, Ann Landers, that a woman's image of herself is extremely important to her emotional well-being. If this image is a poor one the woman may become withdrawn and introverted. Some women don't mind being flat-chested but others become depressed and serious personality problems result.

You say, "Why subject yourself to surgery when a $2 purchase in a lingerie store can produce the desired results?" Have you ever seen one of those $2 purchases pop out of a bathing suit and float on top of the pool? Furthermore a $2 purchase will not permit a woman to wear a low-cut evening gown. The "purchases" slip and slide and sometimes they fall out.

Plastic surgeons now use jelly-like implants to build up bosoms. This produces a natural appearance and the operation is relatively simple. The degree of success is extremely high and the women love it.

Why don't you consult with specialists and learn the wonders of plastic surgery? Yours Truly, TAMPA PLASTIC SURGEON

Dear Surgeon: If you have been reading my column for years you should know I'm well aware of the wonders of plastic surgery and that I've made millions of others aware of it, too.

In the very column you attack I wrote: "Once upon a time people had to play the hand nature dealt them because they had no choice. Today, surgeons can uncross eyes, remove pocks and scars, reshape noses, rebuild underslung jaws and make people feel better about themselves. I am all for it."

My position on surgery to build up bosoms is unchanged. The plastic surgeons with whom I consult tell me the silicone implants (you can them jelly-like) have been used successfully in a great many cases. However, in some patients, the implants have produced breast tumors. I would not advise any reader, no matter how depressed over a flat chest, to take such a foolish chance. (P. S. The $2 falsies do not slip or fall out when sewn into a bathing suit or evening gown. And the new padded bras are better than ever.)

Dear Ann Landers: I married a divorced man. I knew life would not be a bowl of cherries but I never expected to choke on so many pits. The problem is Art's former wife. Ellen is determined to be part of his family and I'm sorry to say she is succeeding.

Whenever we go to my mother-in law's apartment Ellen is there. She has also become a close friend of Art's sister and gets herself invited to every family affair. The shrewd little she-devil has even managed to become friendly with my own sister.

Neither Art nor I is confortable in Ellen's presence. She is forever referring to incidents from the past. Sometimes I get the feeling she has not yet accepted the fact that she and Art are no longer married.

Is it fair for Art's family to continue to be friendly to Ellen now that she is divorced? Should I ask Art to order them to stop including her? NUMBER TWO

Dear Two: Art has no right to determine for his family either their friends or acquaintances. He can, however, ask them not to include you and Art when they have invited Ellen. And I suggest you do just that.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong. Who should set the necking limits--the boy or girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex-- Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems.

LIKE MOTHER, ETC.

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Using the same jury and the same lawyers and the same witnesses, a mother and her daughter were able to obtain divorces simultaneously here. Both divorces were granted on the same grounds, that of two years' separation.

Mrs. Doris F. Kerr and her daughter, Mrs. June Kerr Collins, appeared before Robert Wilson, superior court judge. Mrs. Kerr's separation started in 1957, while her daughter's was listed as starting in 1959.

Los Angeles Downs St. Louis

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Los Angeles blanked St. Louis again Sunday, this time 5 to 0, and Boston nicked Kansas City 3 to 2 on a three-run outburst which included an inside-the-park homer.

Claude Osteen of the Dodgers needed help in the ninth, but Ron Perranoski pulled it out for him by retiring three straight batters after singles by Curt Flood and Dick Groat.

Osteen picked up his 15th victory against 15 setbacks, walked only one man, did not allow a man past second and his outfielders handled only one put-out.

The crucial decision also kept the Dodgers in second place in the National League pennant race, 3 and a half games behind the San Francisco Giants, who defeated Milwaukee 4 to 2.

Jim Lefebvre got his 10th homer in the second off loser Bob Gibson and Wes Parker, whose run-scoring single won a 1 to 0 shutout for Los Angeles from St. Louis Saturday night, hit his eighth in the eighth inning.

Gibson dropped his 11th game against 18 victories. The Dodgers scored twice off him in the sixth after back to back singles by Willie Davis and Ron Fairly. Davis ran in on a wild pitch and Parker singled across the second run.

Osteen registered a run himself. He singled to lead off the seventh, was doubled around by Maury Wills and scored on Davis' sacrifice fly.

Jim Gosger started the third inning for Boston with the inside-the-park homer and Felix Mantilla added a two-run single for the triumph over the Athletics.

Jim Landis singled across the A's first run in the third, then homered in the sixth.

The Cardinals are idle today. Jim Hunter (6-6) will go for the A's against Minnesota tonight at Minneapolis. Jim (Mudcat) Grant (19-5) will pitch for the Twins.

Giants' 16th Triumph

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Fair is foul, and foul is fair. Hover through the fog and filthy air."

But as the air became slightly colored while Milwaukee's Joe Torre and umpire Billy Williams argued the Shakespearean concept of foul and fair, Hal Lanier of San Francisco didn't hover anywhere.

He raced home from first base with the tie-breaking run and helped the Giants to a 4-2 victory over the Braves Sunday.

The triumph was the Giants' 16th in the last 17 games and kept their National League lead at 3½ games over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The play in dispute cropped up in the eighth inning after Lanier led off with a single in a 2-2 game. Jim Davenport bunted down the first base line, and first baseman Joe Torre decided to let the ball roll, thinking it would go foul.

When he finally grabbed it, he thought the ball was foul, but Williams ruled differently. Without calling time out, Torre angrily threw the ball to the ground and jumped into an argument with the umpire.

Lanier didn't stop to listen. By the time Torre picked up the ball, Lanier was at third. By the time Torre realized what he had done, Lanier was across the plate and the Giants led 3-2.

Elsewhere in the NL, the Dodgers whipped St. Louis 5-0, Cincinnati edged Houston 4-3 after losing 8-6, Pittsburgh nipped Philadelphia 1-0 in 10 innings and New York beat Chicago 8-6.

In the American, Minnesota walloped Washington 8-1, Chicago trimmed Cleveland 7-5, New York downed Detroit 3-0 and Boston nipped Kansas City 3-2. Rain washed out the doubleheader between Baltimore and California.

Ron Perranoski rescued Claude Osteen in the ninth inning and saved the Dodgers' second straight shutout over St. Louis. Osteen, 15-14, didn't allow a Cardinal past second base while the Dodgers built their lead with the help of homers by Jim Lefebvre and Wes Paker.

Jim Gentile's three-run pinch-hit homer in the eighth inning lifted Houston past Cincinnati in the first game. Rusty Staub earlier hit a three-run homer for the Astros while Frank Robinson hit one for the Reds, who now are 4½ games from the top.

Tommy Harper's homer in the Cincinnati seventh inning broke a 3-3 deadlock in the nightcap. The Reds had taken a 3-2 lead on Leo Cardenas' homer in the sixth, but the Astros tied it in the seventh on a single by Eddie Kasko and Lee Maye's double.

Pittsburgh's Bob Veale, 17-11, allowed the Phillies only one hit in 10 innings—Tony Taylor's two-out single in the sixth. He also struck out 12, breaking his own team record for strikeouts in one season. Roberto Clemente singled across the only run of the game.

Cleon Jones and Bobby Klaus led the Mets' attack, Jones driving in three runs and Klaus scoring three. Ernie Banks singled across a pair of runs for the Cubs.

There's Not Much To Football

John David Crow's analysis of football is strikingly simple.

"There's not too much to football when you boil it down," the San Francisco running back says. "The quarterback hands you the ball, and the other nine guys knocked the other side down."

Sounds simple but Crow's 49er teammates weren't making much progress in their National Football League opener Sunday against Chicago. John David, who had been sidelined with a broken left hand, watched from the bench as San Francisco struggled through the first period without ever passing the mid field stripe.

The Bears were leading 3-0 when San Francisco Coach Jack Christianson decided to let Crow show his teammates what a really simple game football can be.

John David, who came to the 49ers from St. Louis in exchange for defensive back Abe Woodson, combined on a razzle-dazzle option play, taking a pitchout from John Brodie and tossing 16 yards to Monty Stickles at the Bear 33. Moments later he rambled 18 yards into the end zone for the 49ers' first TD.

Six touchdowns and a field goal later San Francisco had a 52-24 rout of the Bears wrapped up. Four of the 49er TDs came on Brodie passes, two of them to Bernie Casey. The point total was the highest ever for the 49ers in the NFL.

In other openers, Detroit blanked Los Angeles 20-6, Green Bay routed Pittsburgh 41-9, Philadelphia upset St. Louis 24-27, Cleveland downed Washington 17-7, Baltimore whacked Minnesota 35-16 and Dallas wrecked New York 3-2.

The Lions protected a slim 3-0 lead for three periods against Los Angeles, then broke loose for 17 points in the final quarter. Mile Plum pitched two touchdown passes and Detroit's defense never let the Rams past the Lion 45.

Green Bay trailed 9-7 at the half against Pittsburgh as Mike Clark booted three field goals for the Steelers. But the Packers came roaring back in the second half. Bart Tarr completed 17 of 23 attempts for 226 yards and two toucheowns.

Halfback Tim Brown, who resisted Eagle Coach Joe Kuharich's attempt to convert him into a flanker during the training season, scored two TDs leading Philadelphia's upset of St. Louis. Brown caught seven passes for 129 yards and gained 50 more running.

Cleveland's defense throttled the Redskins and had Washington shut out until the last two minutes of play. Frank Ryan accounted for both the Browns' touchdowns with scoring pitches to Walter Roberts and Gary Collins.

Johnny Unitas had two of his first four passes intercepted by Minnesota as the Vikings jumped off to a 10-0 lead, but Baltimore's defense jelled and gave Unitas plenty of time to rally the Colts back.

Dallas' defense completely stifled New York and Don Meredith's quarterbacking kept the Cowboys in command. Dallas capitalized on a fumble for one TD and a 27-yard Giant punt set up another as the Cowboys grabbed an early 17-0 lead.

Jack Nicklaus, Top Money Winner

Jack Nicklaus

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) -- What's next for Jack Nicklaus, now that he has won more money in a single golf season than any other man?

Fewer tournaments a year, for one thing. And he would like, someday to be recognized as a great golfer, maybe the best this country has produced.

These reflections by Nicklaus came minutes after he won $6,600 with rounds of 69-68-68-68-273 in capturing the Portland Open Championship Sunday. That boosted his season's earnings to $134,045. The previous high was Arnold Palmer's $128,-230 in 1963.

Nicklaus was 15 under par for his four rounds on the par 35-37-72 Portland Golf Club course. It was his second straight victory at Portland, and his fifth championship this year.

Dave Marr, who started the day two strokes behind Nicklaus, wound up three strokes behind at 276. Next came Billy Maxwell at 278, South African Bob Verwey at 279, and Bill Casper at 290.

In four years, the 25-year-old Nicklaus has won $409,298 on the golf course. The only two bigger money winners are Palmer, with $643,982, and Casper, with $446,589, and both of them have been on the pro tour 11 years.

Culver Stockton Defeated By William Jewell

William Jewell college began defense of its MCAU football crown by defeating Culver-Stockton, 40-0, and Kirksville State, Springfield State and Maryville State scored impressive victories on the first big weekend of full-sclae football action in Missouri.

The Cardinals of William Jewell scored late in the second period on Jack Patterson's 57-yard run and then exploded for three third-quarter touchdowns -Phil Colwell's 2-yard run and two passes from Jack Patterson to Bob Buschman-to wrap it up.

Patterson threw 67 and 20 yards to Buschman and had a final 48-yard T.D. scamper to give Jewell its last touchdown.

Kirksville State lost a 2-touchdown half-time bulge before coming back with two fourth-quarter T.D.s to trim Western Illinois, 34-21.

Halfbacks Sharron Washington and T. J. Jackson, each scoring his second touchdown, went over from the 15 and 5, respectively, in the final period. Western had gone ahead early in the quarter on a 66-yard scoring toss from Rich Raber to Jim Jackson and Bill Dudley's conversion.

Pat Hogan and Cornelius Perry scored two touchdowns each as Springfield State coasted to a 38-13 victory over Emporia State in a non-conference game. Emporia State took a 7-0 lead on Max Smith's 44-yard pass to Lew Lane and Earl Hurst's conversion before the Missourians rolled back. Dan Young of Springfield threw 12 yards to Bill Douglass and 27 yards to Perry for scores.

Maryville State rallied from a 7-0 deficit to defeat Wayne State Neb., 14-7. The winners scored two fourth-period touchdowns on Leo Papas' 15-yard pass to Mike Peterson and Mickey Thompson's one-yard run.

In other clashes involving Missouri teams, Washington of St. Louis trimmed Rolla Mines, 19-6; Northeast Louisiana blanked Cape Girardeau, 5-0; Tarkio made its record 2-0 by ripping Dana, 19-6; Central Methodist edged Iowa Wesleyan, 2-0, a Huron S. D. defeated Missouri Valley, 19-7.

North Texas And Louisville Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati's new-look backfield and the same old tough Cincy defense got the Bearcats off to an impressive start in the defense of their Missouri Valley championship. Louisville and North Texas were beaten in their openers.

The Bearcats were deadly efficient in whipping Dayton 28-0 at Cincinnati. Dayton has been designated a league game, both for Cincy and Louisville Oct. 9 because Cincy and Louisville don't meet.

Louisville lost 17-13 at Western Michigan and North Texas took a 61-15 lashing at Texas Western. Tulsa was idle after opening with a 14-0 victory over Houston in the Astrodome Sept. 11. Wichita doesn't open the season until Saturday at Montana State in Bozeman.

The other Valley games must take a back seat Saturday to the Tulsa - Arkansas battle at Fayetteville. The sixth-ranked Razorbacks, winners of 13 straight, could have trouble against an inspired Tulsa club.

Arkansas and Cincy were the only teams to beat Tulsa last season.

Cincinnati plays a Friday night game with Houston in the Astrodome. Southern Illinois plays at Louisville Saturday night in the other game.

Benny Russell's 58-yard scoring pass to Mike Dennis gave Louisville a 7-0 edge and the Cardinals stayed close until they lost a fumble deep in their territory and Western Michigan cashed in for a 17-7 lead.

Texas Western, coached by Bobby Dobbs, brother of Tulsa coach Glenn Dobbs, set an NCAA major college team record with 534 yards passing. Bill Stevens, Western's sophomore quarterback, passed for 500 yards, breaking the national mark of 488 set by Tulsa's Jerry Rhome against Oklahoma State last season.

In the modern corporation, the chief executive is generally not the owner of the business. He is a temporary steward for the share owners. It might satisfy his secret vanity to find that his retirement produces a great jolt to the organization because there is no one qualified to take his place. But to my view, such an executive must be adjudged a failure, because one of his primary duties is to assure the continuity of leadership.

When the time comes, the chief executive will have to make the most difficult decision of all. He must sense when the new leadership is ready, and then leave the scene, gracefully and completely, so that his successors can make their own contribution in the vigor of their prime. Ralph J. Cordiner

Exciting Day In Big Eight Football

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

A 97-yard pass, a 95-yard punt return and a tornado-shortened game made it an unusual and eventful opening day in Big Eight football, but things were normal in Nebraska as the Cornhuskers protected their No. 1 national ranking by belting TCU 34-14.

Big Eight teams didn't win the close ones and finished 2-4-1 for the day. Kentucky nudged Missouri 7-0 and Colorado and Wisconsin battled to a scoreless tie. Iowa State whipped Drake as expected, 21-0.

Texas Tech's 26-7 victory over Kansas was called in the first minute of the last quarter after a tornado touched ground a few miles from the stadium in Lubbock, Tex. Bill Fenton, a little sophomore subbing for No. 1 quarterback Bob Skahan, threw to split end Willie Ray Smith for a 97-yard touchdown, longest in Big Eight history.

Vic Castillo, Kansas State quarterback, broke a bunch of school records as he hit 20 of 43 passes for 241 yards. But Indiana intercepted four and had too much over-all strength in its 19-7 victory at Indiana.

Arkansas overwhelmed Oklahoma State with 302 yards rushing and ground out a 28-14 victory in a night game at Little Rock extending its winning streak to 13 games.

The 95-yard punt return by Iowa State's Gary King tied the Big Eight record. Tony Baker also had a 77-yard T.D. run for the Cyclones.

Colorado out-rushed Wisconsin 169 to 93 and moved to the Badger 19 and 13 in the second period. A lost fumble and interception ended those threats and the Buffs needed three second half interceptions to hold off the Big Ten club at Madison.

Bob Churchich threw two touchdown passes to split end Freeman White for a 14-0 Nebraska lead in the first 12 minutes.

Kentucky, considered a prime Southeastern conference title threat, got the lead in Rick Norton's passing, then held off Missouri in the last half. They stopped an 88-yard drive by hitting Johnny Roland a foot from the goal, then recovering his fumble in the end zone.

Missouri takes on Oklahoma State at Stillwater in the conference opener Saturday. OSU upset the Tigers a year. The Big Eight has a good chance for a winning day in the six-game non-league schedule. Arizona is at Kansas; Fresno State at Colorado; University of Pacific at Iowa State; K-State at Brigham Young in the only night game; Nebraska at Air Force; and Oklahoma at Pittsburgh in OU's season opener.

Extreme heat and humidity took its toll of both teams at Missouri, many players losing 10 to 15 pounds and Coach Dan Devine said both teams may have trouble getting ready for the next game.

"I wasn't disappointed in our team's performance, facing the facts," Devine said. "We played an inspired game. I feel good about the fact we stood nose-to-nose with a team like Kentucky. They have a real fine team and they're going to win some games. Missouri will win some, too."

He praised the play of Missouri's sophomores.

Devine said he believed Norton retreated and stopped three times before throwing to halfback Larry Seiple on the 36-yard touchdown play. It was fourth down-and-six and Missouri was expecting a short hook pass.

"Seiple wasn't his primary receiver, I'm sure," Devine said. "It was the mark of an outstanding passer. We didn't cover him, but I want to play it clear this wasn't Ken Boston's fault."

Kansas coach Jack Mitchell lashed his players after the game and told them the score would have been worse if the game hadn't been called. No one could remember the last time a Mitchell-coached team passed for 202 yards. Two interceptions hurt the Jayhawks, who were in poor field position most of the game.

K-State coach Doug Weaver said end Bill Matan and halfback Charlie Cottle played well. Fullback Ed Danieley and guard Jim Johnson suffered knee injuries. Weaver said he thought his team is potentially better than last year, but "it's hard to tell."

Remember, the triumphant Christian does not fight for victory; he celebrates a victory already won. The risen, triumphant Lord demonstrates his triumph through those who are joined to him. The Lord Jesus is not your helper only, he is your very life. The victorious Christian life is just the life of the victorious Christ. There is only one Person in the wide universe who can live such a life, and that is Christ himself. It is his life. Since Christ lives in you, however, such a life becomes possible through a human personality. You cannot get victory by trying to live for Jesus. That is the popular way, but very disappointing in its results, It is Jesus living his life in you, and that is a very different proposition. The victorious life is his business, not yours.

OUTDOOR TIPS

from the Ancient Age Sportsman's Idea Exchange

WINDING LINE
You know how when winding on a new line the spool jumps and runs generally makes things difficult. Next time, wind your line through a book. Pages of book will put just enough pressure on the line and book steadiness keeps spool from jumping.

PAPER CLIPS
A couple of paper clips are a smart item to keep in your tackle box. They can be used to replace a broken line guide in a jiffy.

CRIPPLED DUCK
You can tell how badly crippled a duck is by the way he holds his head. If head is up, better shoot again. If his head is down, you've got him.

LANTERN LIGHT
Can you suspend a lantern over the water where you fish at night? If so, you can catch more fish. Light attracts bugs. Bugs attract fish.

TELEPHONE POLE
Hunting is unfamiliar country? Note down the number of the telephone pole where you go into the woods. Poles are numbered consecutively. If you come out in the wrong place, pole number will tell you which way to walk.

COLD WEATHER GLOVES
A pair of rubber gloves that housewives use for washing dishes can keep your hands warm in icy weather. Slip them over woolen gloves. Water proof and double barrier keeps cold out.

COUNSEL
Ladies, ladies, do not worry!
Do not fret, nor speak.
All you need to catch your man,
Is to listen and look meek.
On the horn of self attainment,
Let him jazz and let him blow,
As you lift your brow in wonder,
And your lips shape to an "O"
Give no sign of higher learning--
Never tell him what to do--
Make him King of your fair kingdom,
And he'll be a slave to you!

NAILED SINKERS
Drive several nails into your lead sinkers if you are having difficulty holding bottom. Nails will catch and hold every time.

STRINGER
Your fish stringer works as well in hunting season to carry small game as it did in fishing season to hold catch.

Los Angeles Downs St. Louis

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Los Angeles blanked St. Louis again Sunday, this time 5 to 0, and Boston nicked Kansas City 3 to 2 on a three-run outburst which included an inside-the-park homer.

Claude Osteen of the Dodgers needed help in the ninth, but Ron Perranoski pulled it out for him by retiring three straight batters after singles by Curt Flood and Dick Groat.

Osteen picked up his 15th victory against 15 setbacks, walked only one man, did not allow a man past second and his outfielders handled only one put-out.

The crucial decision also kept the Dodgers in second place in the National League pennant race, 3 and a half games behind the San Francisco Giants, who defeated Milwaukee 4 to 2.

Jim Lefebvre got his 10th homer in the second off loser Bob Gibson and Wes Parker, whose run-scoring single won a 1 to 0 shutout for Los Angeles from St. Louis Saturday night, hit his eighth in the eighth inning.

Gibson dropped his 11th game against 18 victories. The Dodgers scored twice off him in the sixth after back to back singles by Willie Davis and Ron Fairly. Davis ran in on a wild pitch and Parker singled across the second run.

Osteen registered a run himself. He singled to lead off the seventh, was doubled around by Maury Wills and scored on Davis' sacrifice fly.

Jim Gosger started the third inning for Boston with the inside-the-park homer and Felix Mantilla added a two-run single for the triumph over the Athletics.

Jim Landis singled across the A's first run in the third, then homered in the sixth.

The Cardinals are idle today. Jim Hunter (6-6) will go for the A's against Minnesota tonight at Minneapolis. Jim (Mudcat) Grant (19-5) will pitch for the Twins.

Giants' 16th Triumph

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Fair is foul, and foul is fair. Hover through the fog and filthy air."

But as the air became slightly colored while Milwaukee's Joe Torre and umpire Billy Williams argued the Shakespeareaan concept of foul and fair, Hal Lanier of San Francisco didn't hover anywhere.

He raced home from first base with the tie-breaking run and helped the Giants to a 4-2 victory over the Braves Sunday.

The triumph was the Giants' 16th in the last 17 games and kept their National League lead at 3½ games over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The play in dispute cropped up in the eighth inning after Lanier led off with a single in a 2-2 game. Jim Davenport bunted down the first base line, and first baseman Joe Torre decided to let the ball roll, thinking it would go foul.

When he finally grabbed it, he thought the ball was foul, but Williams ruled differently. Without calling time out, Torre angrily threw the ball to the ground and jumped into an argument with the umpire.

Lanier didn't stop to listen. By the time Torre picked up the ball, Lanier was at third. By the time Torre realized what he had done, Lanier was across the plate and the Giants led 3-2.

Elsewhere in the NL, the Dodgers whipped St. Louis 5-0, Cincinnati edged Houston 4-3 after losing 8-6, Pittsburgh nipped Philadelphia 1-0 in 10 innings and New York beat Chicago 8-6.

In the American, Minnesota walloped Washington 8-1, Chicago trimmed Cleveland 7-5, New York downed Detroit 3-0 and Boston nipped Kansas City 3-2. Rain washed out the doubleheader between Baltimore and California.

Ron Perranoski rescued Claude Osteen in the ninth inning and saved the Dodgers' second straight shutout over St. Louis. Osteen, 15-14, didn't allow a Cardinal past second base while the Dodgers built their lead with the help of homers by Jim Lefebvre and Wes Paker.

Jim Gentile's three-run pinch-hit homer in the eighth inning lifted Houston past Cincinnati in the first game. Rusty Staub earlier hit a three-run homer for the Astros while Frank Robinson hit one for the Reds, who now are 4½ games from the top.

Tommy Harper's homer in the Cincinnati seventh inning broke a 3-3 deadlock in the nightcap. The Reds had taken a 3-2 lead on Leo Cardenas' homer in the sixth, but the Astros tied it in the seventh on a single by Eddie Kasko and Lee Maye's double.

Pittsburgh's Bob Veale, 17-11, allowed the Phillies only one hit in 10 innings—Tony Taylor's two-out single in the sixth. He also struck out 12, breaking his own team record for strikeouts in one season. Roberto Clemente singled across the only run of the game.

Cleon Jones and Bobby Klaus led the Mets' attack, Jones driving in three runs and Klaus scoring three. Ernie Banks singled across a pair of runs for the Cubs.

There's Not Much To Football

John David Crow's analysis of football is strikingly simple.

"There's not too much to football when you boil it down," the San Francisco running back says. "The quarterback hands you the ball, and the other nine guys knocked the other side down."

Sounds simple but Crow's 49er teammates weren't making much progress in their National Football League opener Sunday against Chicago. John David, who had been sidelined with a broken left hand, watched from the bench as San Francisco struggled through the first period without ever passing the mid field stripe.

The Bears were leading 3-0 when San Francisco Coach Jack Christianson decided to let Crow show his teammates what a really simple game football can be.

John David, who came to the 49ers from St. Louis in exchange for defensive back Abe Woodson, combined on a razzle-dazzle option play, taking a pitchout from John Brodie and tossing 16 yards to Monty Stickles at the Bear 33. Moments later he rambled 18 yards into the end zone for the 49ers' first TD.

Six touchdowns and a field goal later San Francisco had a 52-24 rout of the Bears wrapped up. Four of the 49er TDs came on Brodie passes, two of them to Bernie Casey. The point total was the highest ever for the 49ers in the NFL.

In other openers, Detroit blanked Los Angeles 20-6, Green Bay routed Pittsburgh 41-9, Philadelphia upset St. Louis 24-27, Cleveland downed Washington 17-7, Baltimore whacked Minnesota 35-16 and Dallas wrecked New York 3-2.

The Lions protected a slim 3-0 lead for three periods against Los Angeles, then broke loose for 17 points in the final quarter. Mile Plum pitched two touchdown passes and Detroit's defense never let the Rams past the Lion 45.

Green Bay trailed 9-7 at the half against Pittsburgh as Mike Clark booted three field goals for the Steelers. But the Packers came roaring back in the second half. Bart Tarr completed 17 of 23 attempts for 226 yards and two toucheowns.

Halfback Tim Brown, who resisted Eagle Coach Joe Kuharich's attempt to convert him into a flanker during the training season, scored two TDs leading Philadelphia's upset of St. Louis. Brown caught seven passes for 129 yards and gained 50 more running.

Cleveland's defense throttled the Redskins and had Washington shut out until the last two minutes of play. Frank Ryan accounted for both the Browns' touchdowns with scoring pitches to Walter Roberts and Gary Collins.

Johnny Unitas had two of his first four passes intercepted by Minnesota as the Vikings jumped off to a 10-0 lead, but Baltimore's defense jelled and gave Unitas plenty of time to rally the Colts back.

Dallas' defense completely stifled New York and Don Meredith's quarterbacking kept the Cowboys in command. Dallas capitalized on a fumble for one TD and a 27-yard Giant punt set up another as the Cowboys grabbed an early 17-0 lead.

Jack Nicklaus, Top Money Winner

Jack Nicklaus

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) -- What's next for Jack Nicklaus, now that he has won more money in a single golf season than any other man?

Fewer tournaments a year, for one thing. And he would like, someday to be recognized as a great golfer, maybe the best this country has produced.

These reflections by Nicklaus came minutes after he won $6,600 with rounds of 69-68-68-68--273 in capturing the Portland Open Championship Sunday. That boosted his season's earnings to $134,045. The previous high was Arnold Palmer's $128,-230 in 1963.

Nicklaus was 15 under par for his four rounds on the par 35-37--72 Portland Golf Club course. It was his second straight victory at Portland, and his fifth championship this year.

Dave Marr, who started the day two strokes behind Nicklaus, wound up three strokes behind at 276. Next came Billy Maxwell at 278, South African Bob Verwey at 279, and Bill Casper at 290.

In four years, the 25-year-old Nicklaus has won $409,298 on the golf course. The only two bigger money winners are Palmer, with $643,982, and Casper, with $446,589, and both of them have been on the pro tour 11 years.

Culver Stockton Defeated By William Jewell

William Jewell college began defense of its MCAU football crown by defeating Culver-Stockton, 40-0, and Kirksville State, Springfield State and Maryville State scored impressive victories on the first big weekend of full-sclae football action in Missouri.

The Cardinals of William Jewell scored late in the second period on Jack Patterson's 57-yard run and then exploded for three third-quarter touchdowns -Phil Colwell's 2-yard run and two passes from Jack Patterson to Bob Buschman-to wrap it up.

Patterson threw 67 and 20 yards to Buschman and had a final 48-yard T.D. scamper to give Jewell its last touchdown.

Kirksville State lost a 2-touchdown half-time bulge before coming back with two fourth-quarter T.D.s to trim Western Illinois, 34-21.

Halfbacks Sharron Washington and T. J. Jackson, each scoring his second touchdown, went over from the 15 and 5, respectively, in the final period. Western had gone ahead early in the quarter on a 66-yard scoring toss from Rich Raber to Jim Jackson and Bill Dudley's conversion.

Pat Hogan and Cornelius Perry scored two touchdowns each as Springfield State coasted to a 38-13 victory over Emporia State in a non-conference game. Emporia State took a 7-0 lead on Max Smith's 44-yard pass to Lew Lane and Earl Hurst's conversion before the Missourians rolled back. Dan Young of Springfield threw 12 yards to Bill Douglass and 27 yards to Perry for scores.

Maryville State rallied from a 7-0 deficit to defeat Wayne State Neb., 14-7. The winners scored two fourth-period touchdowns on Leo Papas' 15-yard pass to Mike Peterson and Mickey Thompson's one-yard run.

In other clashes involving Missouri teams, Washington of St. Louis trimmed Rolla Mines, 19-6; Northeast Louisiana blanked Cape Girardeau, 5-0; Tarkio made its record 2-0 by ripping Dana, 19-6; Central Methodist edged Iowa Wesleyan, 2-0, a Huron S. D, defeated Missouri Valley, 19-7.

North Texas And Louisville Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati's new-look backfield and the same old tough Cincy defense got the Bearcats off to an impressive start in the defense of their Missouri Valley championship. Louisville and North Texas were beaten in their openers.

The Bearcats were deadly efficient in whipping Dayton 28-0 at Cincinnati. Dayton has been designated a league game, both for Cincy and Louisville Oct. 9 because Cincy and Louisville don't meet.

Louisville lost 17-13 at Western Michigan and North Texas took a 61-15 lashing at Texas Western. Tulsa was idle after opening with a 14-0 victory over Houston in the Astrodome Sept. 11. Wichita doesn't open the season until Saturday at Montana State in Bozeman.

The other Valley games must take a back seat Saturday to the Tulsa - Arkansas battle at Fayetteville. The sixth-ranked Razorbacks, winners of 13 straight, could have trouble against an inspired Tulsa club.

Arkansas and Cincy were the only teams to beat Tulsa last season.

Cincinnati plays a Friday night game with Houston in the Astrodome. Southern Illinois plays at Louisville Saturday night in the other game.

Benny Russell's 58-yard scoring pass to Mike Dennis gave Louisville a 7-0 edge and the Cardinals stayed close until they lost a fumble deep in their territory and Western Michigan cashed in for a 17-7 lead.

Texas Western, coached by Bobby Dobbs, brother of Tulsa coach Glenn Dobbs, set an NCAA major college team record with 534 yards passing. Bill Stevens, Western's sophomore quarterback, passed for 500 yards, breaking the national mark of 488 set by Tulsa's Jerry Rhome against Oklahoma State last season.

In the modern corporation, the chief executive is generally not the owner of the business. He is a temporary steward for the share owners. It might satisfy his secret vanity to find that his retirement produces a great jolt to the organization because there is no one qualified to take his place. But to my view, such an executive must be adjudged a failure, because one of his primary duties is to assure the continuity of leadership.

When the time comes, the chief executive will have to make the most difficult decision of all. He must sense when the new leadership is ready, and then leave the scene, gracefully and completely, so that his successors can make their own contribution in the vigor of their prime. Ralph J. Cordiner

Wherever you fish for sport—on the ocean, by the booming surf, or on some quiet country pond, it's great at the end of the day to head for a rewarding glass of beer. While you're talking over the ones that got away, or pan-frying the ones that didn't, you enjoy the hearty taste and cool refreshment only a glass of beer can give you so well. Yes, whatever your sport—bowling or strolling, golfing or gardening—a frosty glass of beer makes a naturally great accompaniment.

Exciting Day In Big Eight Football

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

A 97-yard pass, a 95-yard punt return and a tornado-shortened game made it an unusual and eventful opening day in Big Eight football, but things were normal in Nebraska as the Cornhuskers protected their No. 1 national ranking by belting TCU 34-14.

Big Eight teams didn't win the close ones and finished 2-4-1 for the day. Kentucky nudged Missouri 7-0 and Colorado and Wisconsin battled to a scoreless tie. Iowa State whipped Drake as expected, 21-0.

Texas Tech's 26-7 victory over Kansas was called in the first minute of the last quarter after a tornado touched ground a few miles from the stadium in Lubbock, Tex. Bill Fenton, a little sophomore subbing for No. 1 quarterback Bob Skahan, threw to split end Willie Ray Smith for a 97-yard touchdown, longest in Big Eight history.

Vic Castillo, Kansas State quarterback, broke a bunch of school records as he hit 20 of 43 passes for 241 yards. But Indiana intercepted four and had too much over-all strength in its 19-7 victory at Indiana.

Arkansas overwhelmed Oklahoma State with 302 yards rushing and ground out a 28-14 victory in a night game at Little Rock extending its winning streak to 13 games.

The 95-yard punt return by Iowa State's Gary King tied the Big Eight record. Tony Baker also had a 77-yard T.D. run for the Cyclones.

Colorado out-rushed Wisconsin 169 to 93 and moved to the Badger 19 and 13 in the second period. A lost fumble and interception ended those threats and the Buffs needed three second half interceptions to hold off the Big Ten club at Madison.

Bob Churchich threw two touchdown passes to split end Freeman White for a 14-0 Nebraska lead in the first 12 minutes.

Kentucky, considered a prime Southeastern conference title threat, got the lead in Rick Norton's passing, then held off Missouri in the last half. They stopped an 88-yard drive by hitting Johnny Roland a foot from the goal, then recovering his fumble in the end zone.

Missouri takes on Oklahoma State at Stillwater in the conference opener Saturday. OSU upset the Tigers a year. The Big Eight has a good chance for a winning day in the six-game non-league schedule. Arizona is at Kansas; Fresno State at Colorado; University of Pacific at Iowa State; K-State at Brigham Young in the only night game; Nebraska at Air Force; and Oklahoma at Pittsburgh in OU's season opener.

Extreme heat and humidity took its toll of both teams at Missouri, many players losing 10 to 15 pounds and Coach Dan Devine said both teams may have trouble getting ready for the next game.

"I wasn't disappointed in our team's performance, facing the facts," Devine said. "We played an inspired game. I feel good about the fact we stood nose-to-nose with a team like Kentucky. They have a real fine team and they're going to win some games. Missouri will win some, too."

He praised the play of Missouri's sophomores.

Devine said he believed Norton retreated and stopped three times before throwing to halfback Larry Seiple on the 36-yard touchdown play. It was fourth down-and-six and Missouri was expecting a short hook pass.

"Seiple wasn't his primary receiver, I'm sure," Devine said. "It was the mark of an outstanding passer. We didn't cover him, but I want to play it clear this wasn't Ken Boston's fault."

Kansas coach Jack Mitchell lashed his players after the game and told them the score would have been worse if the game hadn't been called. No one could remember the last time a Mitchell-coached team passed for 202 yards. Two interceptions hurt the Jayhawks, who were in poor field position most of the game.

K-State coach Doug Weaver said end Bill Matan and halfback Charlie Cottle played well. Fullback Ed Danieley and guard Jim Johnson suffered knee injuries. Weaver said he thought his team is potentially better than last year, but "it's hard to tell."

Remember, the triumphant Christian does not fight for victory; he celebrates a victory already won. The risen, triumphant Lord demonstrates his triumph through those who are joined to him. The Lord Jesus is not your helper only, he is your very life. The victorious Christian life is just the life of the victorious Christ. There is only one Person in the wide universe who can live such a life, and that is Christ himself. It is his life. Since Christ lives in you, however, such a life becomes possible through a human personality. You cannot get victory by trying to live for Jesus. That is the popular way, but very disappointing in its results, It is Jesus living his life in you, and that is a very different proposition. The victorious life is his business, not yours.

OUTDOOR TIPS

from the Ancient Age Sportsman's Idea Exchange

WINDING LINE

You know how when winding on a new line the spool jumps and runs generally makes things difficult. Next time, wind your line through a book. Pages of book will put just enough pressure on the line and book steadiness keeps spool from jumping.

PAPER CLIPS

A couple of paper clips are a smart item to keep in your tackle box. They can be used to replace a broken line guide in a jiffy.

CRIPPLED DUCK

You can tell how badly crippled a duck is by the way he holds his head. If head is up, better shoot again. If his head is down, you've got him.

LANTERN LIGHT

Can you suspend a lantern over the water where you fish at night? If so, you can catch more fish. Light attracts bugs. Bugs attract fish.

TELEPHONE POLE

Hunting is unfamiliar country? Note down the number of the telephone pole where you go into the woods. Poles are numbered consecutively. If you come out in the wrong place, pole number will tell you which way to walk.

COLD WEATHER GLOVES

A pair of rubber gloves that housewives use for washing dishes can keep your hands warm in icy weather. Slip them over woolen gloves. Water proof and double barrier keeps cold out.

NAILED SINKERS

Drive several nails into your lead sinkers if you are having difficulty holding bottom. Nails will catch and hold every time.

STRINGER

Your fish stringer works as well in hunting season to carry small game as it did in fishing season to hold catch.

COUNSEL

Ladies, ladies, do not worry!
Do not fret, nor speak.
All you need to catch your man,
Is to listen and look meek.
On the horn of self attainment,
Let him jazz and let him blow,
As you lift your brow in wonder,
And your lips shape to an "O"
Give no sign of higher learning--
Never tell him what to do--
Make him King of your fair kingdom,
And he'll be a slave to you!

The Oran R3 Schools started on Sept. 7 with an overflow of anxious excited youngsters. Because of the number in Kindergarten there will be two sessions instead of the one as planned. One in the morning taught by a substitute, Mrs. Jane Harper, until a full-time teacher is found. There are 38 enrolled in Kindergarten. The first and second had an overflow so therefore had to be devided making what is called a split class made up of part of the first and second grades. Enrollment in each grade is as follows: first, 31; second, 32; split grade, 24; third, 26; fourth, 33; fifth, 38; sixth, 36; seventh, 31; eight, 37 and with the 38 enrolled in Kindergarten there is a total of 326 enrolled in elementary. New Water Tower To Go Into Use

GIDEON -- Mayor, Tom Bradshaw, says that the new water tower on the west side of town will be put into operation next week.

Bradshaw stated that if present plans went as expected that the control device would be installed by Doyle Wilhelm.

Mayor Bradshaw said that for a short while residents of Gideon would probably taste and smell an odor in the water. He said there would be no cause for alarm as this would be caused by the addition of chlorine to the water as a sterilizing agent. After a short period of use this taste and smell should disappear from the water.

The new tower was erected this past summer south of the Westside Service Station on Highway 162 west of Gideon, at a cost of $30,802 by the E. F. Caldwell Construction Co. It has a tank capacity of 100,000 gallons and a stand pipe capacity of 35,000 gallons.

HE Measures Up!

Benjamin Franklin and many other great men got their first business training as newspaperboys. Men whose names make headlines in today's newspapers . . . men like J. Edgar Hoover, Walt Disney, Lowell Thomas, Bing Crosby, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Astronaut Virgil I. Grissom.

And in tomorrow's headlines, will be many of today's newspaperboys.

Why? Because today's newspaperboy is learning the principles of business early in his career. This Junior Independent Merchant buys his newspapers at wholesale and sells them at retail to his customers. Just like any other businessman, he learns that in order to make a profit he must keep accurate records, collect and pay promptly, and plan his time.

Equally important, he learns to meet people easily and how to close a sale. He finds that dependability, punctuality, courtesy, and thrift are more than just words and must be put into practice if he is to succeed.

Today's newspaperboy measures up to the proven standards for success which prepare him for leadership tomorrow.

If you have a son that you think might be interested in a newspaper route, why not write or phone us.

Never Take a Laxative Again!

New Miracle Regulator Keeps Waste Soft—So Bowels Move Naturally

New York, N.Y. (Special)—After 12 years' research, scientists have discovered a wonder-working substance that corrects constipation entirely without laxatives!

Doctors say most constipation occurs when waste loses moisture in the colon—becomes dry, hard, difficult to move. To give relief, laxatives have to force action by flushing, irritating or distending the intestine.

The new miracle substance—known medically as dioctyl sodium sulfosuccinate—works in a completely different way. It is not a laxative! It simply makes natural moisture in the colon moisten and soften dry, hard waste more effectively. Then normal elimination follows naturally. Thus by working only on waste, not on you, the substance corrects constipation and restores regularity as no laxative can.

This new discovery has now been made available at drugstores under the name REGUTOL. It is safe—not habit-forming. No warning on the label—no prescription needed. Try REGUTOL—discover for yourself that you may never need to take a laxative again!

THE PRAYER

For Today From The Upper Room

Monday, September 20, 1965

"This is eternal life, that they know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent." (John 17:3, RSV)

PRAYER: O Jesus, grant me the grace of loving obedience, and then help me serve in Thy ways--through works of piety and of charity, through self-renunciation, through deeds that glorify Thee. Lord, behold Thy servant! May I always be ready to serve Thee when Thou dost bid me. In Thy hold name I pray. Amen.

Fertility & Sterility

FERTILITY REGULATION

The regulation of human fertility has been one of man's earnest desires through the ages, but until recently his methods ranged from barbarous to unpleasant, from worthless to undependable. The earliest approaches -- superstitious rites, mystic potions and infanticide -- were the worst. Eventually, women turned to clumsy tampons and uncomfortable vaginal plubs. But when these devices failed, as they so often did, many victims submitted to abortions which frequently killed both mother and child.

The more modern era opened during the 19th Century when the condom and diaphragm were introduced on a wide scale, but they were crude and their failure rate was high. Then, during our own century, came vaginal jellies and foams, which exerted a local spermicidal action, and better condoms and diapragms. But an inherent drawback, in addition to their failure quotient, inhibited the effectiveness of these innovations. They had to be used at or very near the time of coitus, without margin for error.

Some of this handicap has been overcome by the intrauterine device, a polyethylene or stainless steel coil which is inserted in the uterus by a physician and is designed to remain there as long as desired. The IUD's mode of action is not clear, but its presence is thought to cause uterine contractions which are unfavorable to the successful implantation of the ovum. When the coil remains intact it is effective, but expulsion rates of 15 to 20 per cent are being reported.

A FEW OBSERVATIONS ON THE MEANING OF THE EIGHTH AMENDMENT

4. Excessive Punishments:

The notion that excessive punishment, even if of a traditional type, could constitute a violation of the Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments, was first urged by the dissenting justices in O'Neil v. Vermont. In 1910, the United States Supreme Court definitely adopted that view in Weems v. United States.

In the latter case, the defendant, a government official, was convicted of falsification of an official government document in the Philippine Islands. He was sentenced under a Spanish Penal Code provision then in force to fifteen years' imprisonment at hard labor, and to carry for this period a chain from the ankle to the wrists. The court observed that the Spanish legislation, in addition, imposed,

(1) civil interdiction, (2) perpetual absolute disqualification; (3) subjection to surveillance during life.

The majority declared that the effect of the law after release from prison would be as follows:

From other parts there is no intermission. His prison bars and chains are removed, it is true, after twelve years, but he goes from them to a perpetual limitation of his liberty. He is forever kept under the shadow of his crime, forever kept within voice and view of the criminal magistrate, not being able to change his domicile without giving notice to the "authority immediately in charge of surveillance," and without permission in writing. He may not seek, even in other scenes and among other people, to retrieve his fall from rectitude. Even that hope is taken from him, and he is subject to tormenting regulations that, if not so tangible as iron bars and stone walls, oppress as much by their continuity, and deprive of essential liberty. No circumstance of degradation is omitted. It may be that even the cruelty of pain is not omitted. He must bear a chain night and day. He is condemned to painful as well as hard labor. What painful labor may mean we have no exact measure. It must be something more than hard labor. It may be hard labor pressed to the point of pain. Such penalties for such offenses amaze those who have formed their conception of the relation of a state to even its offending citizens from the practice of the American commonwealths, and believe that it is precept of justice that punishment for crime should be graduated and proportioned to offense.

Hurricane Tossed Plane Like Toy, Woman Pilot Says

ABERDEEN, N.C. (AP) — The wall of Hurricane Betsy was black. The winds tossed the aircraft like a toy, first up and down and then sideways.

Once inside the eye of the storm, white fluffy clouds appeared. The winds were no more. Temperatures suddenly rose 10 to 15 degrees. Ears popped and cracked.

Below were the Andros Islands in the Bahamas. The damage of the hurricane was clearly visible.

These are the memories of Page Shamburger, who became one of the first women to fly into the eye of a hurricane.

She rode through the winds of Betsy 16 times.

Miss Shamburger, a pilot since 15 years of age, was invited by the Air Force to join a two-day tracking of the hurricane that brought death and destruction to Florida and Louisiana.

The Air Force said she was the first woman ever to ride on a hurricane penetration flight.

Miss Shamburger rode in the Air Force four-engine plane on two 12-hour missions.

"We would penetrate the storm, fly into the eye and stay there 20 minutes collecting data for the Weather Bureau's national hurricane cener," she said.

Biologist Says Mars May Have Life

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mariner 4's pictures of the arid plains of Mars didn't prove the planet is lifeless, a leading biologist claims.

In fact, says Dr. Colin Pittendrigh, there's a good reason why we should send spaceships to Mars to settle the question once and for all.

"If life is found on two planets in our solar system — on earth and on Mars — it would indicate that life in the universe is an abundant commodity. It would prove that life on earth is not unique."

Dr. Pittendrigh — pronounced pitten-dridge — dean of the Graduate School and professor of biology at Princeton University, spoke Friday night at the California Institue of Technology-Jet Propulsion Laboratory lunar-planetary conference here.

Signs Of Change In Catholic Church

VATICAN CITY (AP) - Signs of increasing change and modernization in the Roman Catholic Church were emerging today as the Vatican Ecumenical Council moved toward its second week.

There had been an atmosphere of uncertainty and caution last weekend as 2,200 bishops arrived in Rome for the council's fourth and final session.

Begging for answers were questions such as the degree of Pope Paul's commitment to Catholicism's drive for updating itself, the maneuvering strength of progressive and conservative council elements, and whether the weighty agenda of 11 documents could be finished this year.

Scuba divers uncover secrets of lost civilizations

Mexico is blessed with a rich heritage. Its history includes advanced civilizations that predated the arrival of the Spaniards. Ancient Mexicans created corn by hybridizing tasty but scrawny weeds. They studied the stars, developed a calendar and plotted the movements of the stars, galaxies and planets.

A heritage like this—one that is known to date back to the dawn of time—is a serious responsibility. Mexico spends millions of dollars each year to dig, excavate, restore and study its many ancient ruins, lost cities and long-buried historical landmarks.

Whether unearthed by pick and shovel or found by scuba-wearing skindivers, these discoveries are adding much to the entire world's understanding of the earth and its peoples in pre-historic times.

India, faced with threats by China, reportedly asked Friday for a resumption of U.S. military aid.

U.S. Agents Will Accompany Truman

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. AP -- For the first time since they left the White House in 1952, former president and Mrs. Harry S. Truman again will be accompanied by Secret Service agents.

A law giving lifetime protection to former presidents and their wives was signed Thursday by President Johnson with a clause putting it into effect immediately.

The Trumans will also have government cars with the accompanying agents.

Truman said Friday he will accept the courtesy but he has not been bothered much in the past 13 years.

Guilty Pleas For Three In Circuit Court

NEW MADRID - Pleas of guilty as charged were accepted in three cases in circuit court Tuesday and Judge William L. Ragland granted divorce decrees in three suits, according to Van H. Sharp Jr., clerk of the court.

The clerk said that a civil suit was on the docket for hearing by a circuit court jury Friday.

Another civil suit is set for jury trial Sept. 27, the circuit clerk said, and the next "law day" of the September Term will be Sept. 28.

In the session here Tuesday Jenny Belle Cole entered a plea of guilty to a charge of selling intoxicating liquor without a license and she was sentenced to a term of two years and then placed on probation by Judge Ragland.

After he had entered a plea of guilty to a state charge of grand larceny Harold Hosford was given a sentence of two years by the circuit court judge and granted probation.

Given a four-year sentence and then placed on probation was Johnny Davis, who entered a plea of guilty to a count of grand larceny.

Judge Ragland granted a divorce in the suit of Margaret F. Manues against Thomas C. Manues and awarded custody of six minor children and $25.00 per month per child support to plaintiff.

Mary Buchanna was granted a divorce in her suit against Modrow Buchanna and the Judge ordered restoration of the name of Mary Houston to plaintiff.

The other divorce was granted in the suit of Benjamin T. (Benny) Brown against Mary Brown.

Hurricane Tossed Plane Like Toy, Woman Pilot Says

ABERDEEN, N.C. (AP) — The wall of Hurricane Betsy was black. The winds tossed the aircraft like a toy, first up and down and then sideways.

Once inside the eye of the storm, white fluffy clouds appeared. The winds were no more. Temperatures suddenly rose 10 to 15 degrees. Ears popped and cracked.

Below were the Andros Islands in the Bahamas. The damage of the hurricane was clearly visible.

These are the memories of Page Shamburger, who became one of the first women to fly into the eye of a hurricane.

She rode through the winds of Betsy 16 times.

Miss Shamburger, a pilot since 15 years of age, was invited by the Air Force to join a two-day tracking of the hurricane that brought death and destruction to Florida and Louisiana.

The Air Force said she was the first woman ever to ride on a hurricane penetration flight.

Miss Shamburger rode in the Air Force four-engine plane on two 12-hour missions.

"We would penetrate the storm, fly into the eye and stay there 20 minutes collecting data for the Weather Bureau's national hurricane cener," she said.

Biologist Says Mars May Have Life

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mariner 4's pictures of the arid plains of Mars didn't prove the planet is lifeless, a leading biologist claims.

In fact, says Dr. Colin Pittendrigh, there's a good reason why we should send spaceships to Mars to settle the question once and for all.

"If life is found on two planets in our solar system — on earth and on Mars — it would indicate that life in the universe is an abundant commodity. It would prove that life on earth is not unique."

Dr. Pittendrigh — pronounced pitten-dridge — dean of the Graduate School and professor of biology at Princeton University, spoke Friday night at the California Institue of Technology-Jet Propulsion Laboratory lunar-planetary conference here.

Signs Of Change In Catholic Church

VATICAN CITY (AP) - Signs of increasing change and modernization in the Roman Catholic Church were emerging today as the Vatican Ecumenical Council moved toward its second week.

There had been an atmosphere of uncertainty and caution last weekend as 2,200 bishops arrived in Rome for the council's fourth and final session.

Begging for answers were questions such as the degree of Pope Paul's commitment to Catholicism's drive for updating itself, the maneuvering strength of progressive and conservative council elements, and whether the weighty agenda of 11 documents could be finished this year.

The Italians brought cotton to Europe in the Middle Ages.

Scuba divers uncover secrets of lost civilizations

Mexico is blessed with a rich heritage. Its history includes advanced civilizations that predated the arrival of the Spaniards. Ancient Mexicans created corn by hybridizing tasty but scrawny weeds. They studied the stars, developed a calendar and plotted the movements of the stars, galaxies and planets.

A heritage like this—one that is known to date back to the dawn of time—is a serious responsibility. Mexico spends millions of dollars each year to dig, excavate, restore and study its many ancient ruins, lost cities and long-buried historical landmarks.

Whether unearthed by pick and shovel or found by scuba-wearing skindivers, these discoveries are adding much to the entire world's understanding of the earth and its peoples in pre-historic times.

NEW MADRID - Pleas of guilty as charged were accepted in three cases in circuit court Tuesday and Judge William L. Ragland granted divorce decrees in three suits, according to Van H. Sharp Jr., clerk of the court.

Release Asked Of Malden Airport Land For Houses

MALDEN -- A proposal to request the Federal Aviation Agency to release 160 acres of land at the Malden Municipal Airport to be developed and platted for residential housing was submitted Monday night to the City Council by the Airport Commission.

R. L. Ward, Airport manager, and Felix Hampton Jr., a member of the Airport Commission, made the presentation. They said that the proposal had been unanimously approved by the Airport Commission.

The proposal is designed to afford the wage earner the chance to own a new home which can be financed 97 percent.

Stipulations are that when a lot is purchased the buyer must have his home under construction within six months or his money will be refunded without interest and ownership of the lot reverts back to the City of Malden. All homes must be of brick veneer with a minimum value of $8,000.

All money obtained through the sale of the lots will go to the Airport Commission for care and upkeep of other city owned property.

The Council failed to take action on the proposal and asked for more time to study it.

In other actions before the Council, Fire Chief J. D. Wagster presented the City with a check for $2500 received from the sale of Malden's old 1942 model fire truck.

The Council voted to put the $2500 in a special fire equipment fund to be used toward the future purchasing of fire equipment.

American Legion Fair At Caruthersville Oct. 6-10

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Plans and arrangements were being completed this week for the 32nd annual American Legion Fair Oct. 6-10.

The fair will open at 5 p.m. Oct. 6, with a ribbon-cutting ceremony at the main entrance to the fairgrounds with the new queen of the event officiating, assisted by mayors, Legionnaires and other guests. Special for Wednesday only, the gate admission will be reduced to $1 a carload at the traffic gate and 25¢ at the pedestrian gate.

The regional youth talent show, featuring eight of the best amateur acts in the region, will be presented on the grandstand stage, starting at 7 p.m.

The talent show will be followed by the professional free grandstand show featuring a thrill-act in which a man and two girls perform with a motorcycle built like a rocket ship with a platform suspended underneath on a high wire 100 feet in the air. Other acts are an unusual balancing exhibition and a trapeze performance.

On Oct. 8-10, the Fuller brothers, a young singing and instrumental group, will be added to the professional show.

The contest to select the queen of the 1965 fair will be held at the North High school auditorium in Hayti Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Max Sturm of Hayti, director of the contest, said that 25 to 30 girls will be in the event in which appearances will be made in both evening gowns and swim suits. The queen, two alternates and four maids will be selected. These winners will then be presented in a special ceremony on the grandstand stage at the fair Oct. 7, at which time the queen will receive her $100 prize award from the fair, and the trophies will be presented to the queen and the two alternates with the maids receiving gifts.

Cook Freed After Trial For Murder

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Gilbert McCutchen, 29, short order cook from Caruthersville, was acquitted of a first degree murder charge by circuit court jury.

He was charged in the fatal shooting of Dewayne Dodd which took place Nov. 24, 1964, at the home of McCutchen's estranged wife.

The incident took place when McCutchen found Dodd in his wife's apartment and the two became involved in a struggle. Dodd was shot with a .45 caliber pistol which McCutchen had in his possession.

After the shooting took place McCutchen called for the police and an ambulance. He gave himself up to the authorities when they arrived.

Dodd was given emergency treatment at Hayti and moved to a Memphis hospital where he died the next day of a single gunshot wound in the head.

Defense attorney Ray Klemp asked for acquittal on the basis of self defense. It was brought out in the trail that the two men had tangled before and that the defendent had been beaten up by Dodd.

The trial lasted about six hours before going to the jury and the jury returned its verdict of innocent in less than an hour.

They had been instructed as to how they could return verdicts of innocent, guilty of first degree murder, second degree murder or manslaughter by Judge William L. Ragland but after deliberating about 45 minutes the innocent verdict was presented.

The state's case was presented by Prosecuting Attorney Sharon Pate. However, the charges were filed while Sidney Chaffin was still the prosecutor last year.

McCutchen had been held in the county jail since the murder charge was filed against him in November.

Woman Takes Fertility Drug-Has Quadruplets

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ten months ago Alice Pigge took a fertility drug — not to become pregnant but to cure a woman's disorder.

Today she has quadruplets.

Her first children, two boys and two girls, were born a month prematurely Sunday at Los Angeles County General Hospital.

The babies, weighing a total of nine pounds and listed in critical condition, were placed in incubators.

Mrs. Pigge, 5 feet 2 and of average build, was reported in fair condition but cheerful — and insistent on having her hair combed before interviewers dropped in. She is a Mississippi-born Negro resident of Los Angeles.

Dr. Milton Smale, the hospital's chief resident physician in obstetrics, said that last November Mrs. Pigge had taken the drug clomiphene citrate on the advice of her attending physician, Dr. Richard Taw, who operates the hospital's bleeding clinic. The medication corrected her irregularity.

In January she became pregnant.

"The drug may have caused the multiple births, as it has done in other cases," Dr. Smale said. "The possibility that it did not is in the fact that she took the drug in November but did not become pregnant until January."

He said the medication is used in treating irregularity but is best known as a treatment for infertility. "It is primarily a drug used to cause ovulation," he said.

A Swedish woman who bore quadruplets last July had received the same hormone, Dr. Smale said, and a New Zealand woman who had quintulplets had received the drug.

General Hospital records list Mrs. Pigge's husband as James Pigge and say the couple is now separated.

Molly Waits Impatiently To 'Bag Me A Few Squirrels'

HARLAN, Ky. (AP) — Molly Creech Rice waits impatiently for this time of year so she can hike alone in her native southeastern Kentucky mountains and "bag me a few squirrels."

Molly or Jack, as her family always called her, is wiry and leathery-faced with sparkling eyes that belie her 81 years.

"I used to win some hard shooting contests from men," she recalls, "and I guess I still could although my eyes aren't as good as they used to be."

The second oldest child in her family, Molly found farm work took her time in childhood with little chance to play dolls or house.

"I plowed many a furrow then and still do," she said, pointing proudly to her one-acre garden of beans, corn and potatoes at her home in nearby Cumberland.

Molly tagged after her father and cousins on nighttime raccoon hunts through the mountains when she was a child. More than once she fell asleep near a campfire while the men sat listening for their dogs.

"When I was 10, I remember daddy got a new Winchester lever gun and I wanted nothing more in this world than to fire that gun," she said.

"It wasn't long before I finally did and I started hunting, lots of times snitching the gun and leaving early in the morning only to get a whipping when I got home."

She and her husband, Ballard Rice, live in a stone house high on a hillside overlooking Cumberland.

Mrs. Rice's grandfather was a surveyor in Harlan, Bell and Knox counties. He came from North Carolina with his Cherokee Indian bride.

"Grandfather always said he stole grandmother from her family on the reservation and married her," she said.

She and her husband have a house and a speedboat on Cherokee Lake in Tennessee.

"I still haven't tried water skiing but I'm willing to pull anyone who wants to go," she laughed. "But I still find hunting to be my greatest love.

"You know, I think later this fall I'll go out and shoot me a deer before I get too old."

Stroud To Adjust Crop Losses

MATTHEWS -- Robert F. Stroud of route three, has been employed as crop insurance adjuster for New Madrid county. He has completed a training course for adjusting crop losses.

Corn, cotton, and soybeans crops are insured. The insurance protects the farmer's investment against losses from insect infestation, plant disease, drought, flood, hail, wind, frost, freeze, excessive rain, and other unavoidable losses due to adverse weather conditions.

J. S. Smith, state crop insurance director, said that the insurance liability for the County on the cotton, corn and soybean crops this year amounts to $204,993.

"The world is a perpetual caricature of itself; at every moment it is the mockery and the contradiction of what it is pretending to be."

Release Asked Of Malden Airport Land For Houses

MALDEN -- A proposal to request the Federal Aviation Agency to release 160 acres of land at the Malden Municipal Airport to be developed and platted for residential housing was submitted Monday night to the City Council by the Airport Commission.

R. L. Ward, Airport manager, and Felix Hampton Jr., a member of the Airport Commission, made the presentation. They said that the proposal had been unanimously approved by the Airport Commission.

The proposal is designed to afford the wage earner the chance to own a new home which can be financed 97 percent.

Stipulations are that when a lot is purchased the buyer must have his home under construction within six months or his money will be refunded without interest and ownership of the lot reverts back to the City of Malden. All homes must be of brick veneer with a minimum value of $8,000.

All money obtained through the sale of the lots will go to the Airport Commission for care and upkeep of other city owned property.

The Council failed to take action on the proposal and asked for more time to study it.

In other actions before the Council, Fire Chief J. D. Wagster presented the City with a check for $2500 received from the sale of Malden's old 1942 model fire truck.

The Council voted to put the $2500 in a special fire equipment fund to be used toward the future purchasing of fire equipment.

American Legion Fair At Caruthersville Oct. 6-10

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Plans and arrangements were being completed this week for the 32nd annual American Legion Fair Oct. 6-10.

The fair will open at 5 p.m. Oct. 6, with a ribbon-cutting ceremony at the main entrance to the fairgrounds with the new queen of the event officiating, assisted by mayors, Legionnaires and other guests. Special for Wednesday only, the gate admission will be reduced to $1 a carload at the traffic gate and 25¢ at the pedestrian gate.

The regional youth talent show, featuring eight of the best amateur acts in the region, will be presented on the grandstand stage, starting at 7 p.m.

The talent show will be followed by the professional free grandstand show featuring a thrill-act in which a man and two girls perform with a motorcycle built like a rocket ship with a platform suspended underneath on a high wire 100 feet in the air. Other acts are an unusual balancing exhibition and a trapeze performance.

On Oct. 8-10, the Fuller brothers, a young singing and instrumental group, will be added to the professional show.

The contest to select the queen of the 1965 fair will be held at the North High school auditorium in Hayti Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Max Sturm of Hayti, director of the contest, said that 25 to 30 girls will be in the event in which appearances will be made in both evening gowns and swim suits. The queen, two alternates and four maids will be selected. These winners will then be presented in a special ceremony on the grandstand stage at the fair Oct. 7, at which time the queen will receive her $100 prize award from the fair, and the trophies will be presented to the queen and the two alternates with the maids receiving gifts.

Cook Freed After Trial For Murder

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Gilbert McCutchen, 29, short order cook from Caruthersville, was acquitted of a first degree murder charge by circuit court jury.

He was charged in the fatal shooting of Dewayne Dodd which took place Nov. 24, 1964, at the home of McCutchen's estranged wife.

The incident took place when McCutchen found Dodd in his wife's apartment and the two became involved in a struggle. Dodd was shot with a .45 caliber pistol which McCutchen had in his possession.

After the shooting took place McCutchen called for the police and an ambulance. He gave himself up to the authorities when they arrived.

Dodd was given emergency treatment at Hayti and moved to a Memphis hospital where he died the next day of a single gunshot wound in the head.

Defense attorney Ray Klemp asked for acquittal on the basis of self defense. It was brought out in the trail that the two men had tangled before and that the defendent had been beaten up by Dodd.

The trial lasted about six hours before going to the jury and the jury returned its verdict of innocent in less than an hour.

They had been instructed as to how they could return verdicts of innocent, guilty of first degree murder, second degree murder or manslaughter by Judge William L. Ragland but after deliberating about 45 minutes the innocent verdict was presented.

The state's case was presented by Prosecuting Attorney Sharon Pate. However, the charges were filed while Sidney Chaffin was still the prosecutor last year.

McCutchen had been held in the county jail since the murder charge was filed against him in November.

Armed Forces

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, Ark., -- Staff Sergeants Thomas I. Taylor and Luther D. Scott, 97th Organizational Maintenance Squadron, have been named Crew Chiefs of the Quarter, for the 97th Bomb Wing.

Sergeant Taylor, a native of Nashville, Tenn., received the award for the second time. He first won it for the third quarter of 1964.

In winning the honors for being the best B-52 bomber crew chief, Sergeant Taylor successfully launched his aircraft on 15 sorties, all of which were airborne as scheduled. He also maintained his aircraft in such a manner as it completed each mission with "very few" discrepancies.

Sergeant Scott received the KC-135 crew chief award on the basis on having launched his aircraft on 14 sorties, all of which were airborne as scheduled.

A native of California, Mo., Sergeant Scott has logged 136 consecutive on - time takeoffs since being assigned here in January 1964.

Both awards are made quarterly to the top individual B-52 and KC-135 crew chiefs. A revolving trophy is retained by the selected crew chiefs for the quarter, and in the event one man wins the award three consecutive times, the trophy remains in his possession permanently.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., -- A native of Pocahontas, Arkansas has been selected as the 97th Bomb Wing's On-The-Job Training Supervisor of the Quarter for the second quarter of this year.

Staff Sergeant Robert J. Black, 97th Combat Defense Squadron, was awarded the honor based on his accomplishments of bringing his squadron's passing rate from satisfactory to excellent. He also completely revised the squadron's OJT program

OJT officials state, "His example of motivated interest and concern for each individual's training situation has been contagious and now, more than ever, training is an intricate part of the daily mission of CDS."

A veteran of more than 13 years service, Sergeant Black has been assigned to Blytheville for the past three years.

He is married to the former Miss Elly Wulf of Oldenburg, Germany, and they have one son.

Charity is indeed a noble beautiful virtue, grateful to man, and approved by God. But charity must be built on justice.

Woman Takes Fertility Drug-Has Quadruplets

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ten months ago Alice Pigge took a fertility drug — not to become pregnant but to cure a woman's disorder.

Today she has quadruplets.

Her first children, two boys and two girls, were born a month prematurely Sunday at Los Angeles County General Hospital.

The babies, weighing a total of nine pounds and listed in critical condition, were placed in incubators.

Mrs. Pigge, 5 feet 2 and of average build, was reported in fair condition but cheerful — and insistent on having her hair combed before interviewers dropped in. She is a Mississippi-born Negro resident of Los Angeles.

Dr. Milton Smale, the hospital's chief resident physician in obstetrics, said that last November Mrs. Pigge had taken the drug clomiphene citrate on the advice of her attending physician, Dr. Richard Taw, who operates the hospital's bleeding clinic. The medication corrected her irregularity.

In January she became pregnant.

"The drug may have caused the multiple births, as it has done in other cases," Dr. Smale said. "The possibility that it did not is in the fact that she took the drug in November but did not become pregnant until January."

He said the medication is used in treating irregularity but is best known as a treatment for infertility. "It is primarily a drug used to cause ovulation," he said.

A Swedish woman who bore quadruplets last July had received the same hormone, Dr. Smale said, and a New Zealand woman who had quintulplets had received the drug.

General Hospital records list Mrs. Pigge's husband as James Pigge and say the couple is now separated.

Molly Waits Impatiently To 'Bag Me A Few Squirrels'

HARLAN, Ky. (AP) — Molly Creech Rice waits impatiently for this time of year so she can hike alone in her native southeastern Kentucky mountains and "bag me a few squirrels."

Molly or Jack, as her family always called her, is wiry and leathery-faced with sparkling eyes that belie her 81 years.

"I used to win some hard shooting contests from men," she recalls, "and I guess I still could although my eyes aren't as good as they used to be."

The second oldest child in her family, Molly found farm work took her time in childhood with little chance to play dolls or house.

"I plowed many a furrow then and still do," she said, pointing proudly to her one-acre garden of beans, corn and potatoes at her home in nearby Cumberland.

Molly tagged after her father and cousins on nighttime raccoon hunts through the mountains when she was a child. More than once she fell asleep near a campfire while the men sat listening for their dogs.

"When I was 10, I remember daddy got a new Winchester lever gun and I wanted nothing more in this world than to fire that gun," she said.

"It wasn't long before I finally did and I started hunting, lots of times snitching the gun and leaving early in the morning only to get a whipping when I got home."

She and her husband, Ballard Rice, live in a stone house high on a hillside overlooking Cumberland.

Mrs. Rice's grandfather was a surveyor in Harlan, Bell and Knox counties. He came from North Carolina with his Cherokee Indian bride.

"Grandfather always said he stole grandmother from her family on the reservation and married her," she said.

She and her husband have a house and a speedboat on Cherokee Lake in Tennessee.

"I still haven't tried water skiing but I'm willing to pull anyone who wants to go," she laughed. "But I still find hunting to be my greatest love.

"You know, I think later this fall I'll go out and shoot me a deer before I get too old."

Stroud To Adjust Crop Losses

MATTHEWS -- Robert F. Stroud of route three, has been employed as crop insurance adjuster for New Madrid county. He has completed a training course for adjusting crop losses.

Corn, cotton, and soybeans crops are insured. The insurance protects the farmer's investment against losses from insect infestation, plant disease, drought, flood, hail, wind, frost, freeze, excessive rain, and other unavoidable losses due to adverse weather conditions.

J. S. Smith, state crop insurance director, said that the insurance liability for the County on the cotton, corn and soybean crops this year amounts to $204,993.

"The world is a perpetual caricature of itself; at every moment it is the mockery and the contradiction of what it is pretending to be."

CRUCIFIERS OF GOD
AND HIS HOLY BIBLE

The 1964th birthday of God's Son - came and passed. It was a sad day of contemplation - to this writer - more than any former birthday of Christ - and must have been to all others - who KNOW that life itself, and ALL BLESSINGS upon, beneath and above God's earth - have been lovingly provided by Him.

Throughout my early school years - God's Holy Bible was ALWAYS on the desks of our teachers. Every morning - class opened with a prayer to God - through His Son - our Saviour Jesus Christ. If God's sun was shining - we thanked Him for its warmth - and other miracle, life - sustaining qualities. If it was raining, we thanked Him for His life-sustaining rainwater from His clouds.

In the Springtime we thanked Him for His seasonal resurrection of His innumerable miracles - including life-giving foods - sprouting, growing, blossoming and maturing through a myriad of colors. We thanked Him for His blessing of miracle eyes - that enables us to see all of His nature's beauty.

Our little prayers asked God for recuperation of classmates, absent because of sickness - bless and guide our parents - help us to always be good boys and girls according to the Ten Commandments in God's Bible, and the teachings of Jesus - help us to study diligently, so we can learn to take care of ourselves, and not be a burden upon others.

In those days - family prayers - reading together God's Bible - thanks to God before partaking of His food - and our Sunday School classes and church services, concentrated on thankfulness to, and TRUST and FAITH in God and His Son, Jesus. Our Bibles had the most beautiful, inspiring pictures of Jesus, Angels, the Crucifixion of Christ, His Resurrection, God's beautiful clouds, sunshine, rainbow - and other inspirations - especially for young, growing minds of children.

Christmas - with our school and church plays, pageantry, songs and carols - and the age-old - THE GREATEST STORY EVERY TOLD - implanted convictions, TRUST and FAITH in God and His Son, Jesus - that enriched and guided the future years of most of us.

In retrospect - religious and moral indoctrination - was divided between school, home and church. But - the daily, school, little prayers - reading of one or more verses from God's Bible - the Ten Commandments periodically - our Christmas and Easter pageantry, art and plays - all cooperatively with our classmates - contributed MORE than one-third of my lifetime TRUST and FAITH in our ONLY Great Giver of ALL blessings - our God.

Now - look at our America, on the 1964th birthday of Christ. Children who have NO daily, religious worship at home, and do not attend churches and Sunday Schools - learn practically NOTHING of God and Jesus. Children who have NO daily, religious worship at home - but attend Sunday School and Church - learn about God and Jesus - only a fraction of the hours we were fortunate to get - in my school days.

In just the last 40 years - adult delinquency - in all segments of our society - has been responsible for the gradual elimination of Religious teachings - which was the FIRST and MAIN foundation of America's greatness and freedom.

It is bad enough, to transfer our Faith and Trust from God to power - hungry, socialist, politicians, from Presidents down, labor-leaders, many Educators and too many clergymen - and allow them to destroy America's material foundations of a gold-standard, national-solvency, our slavery-preventing U. S. Constitution, States' and individual rights and freedoms and national independence.

But - to forget God - to the extent that we meekly allow nine socialist politicians - called a Supreme Court - most of whom never had a minute's experience as a Judge - non-believers in our U. S. Constitution and free-enterprise - to exceed their Constitutional authority, and hand down many UNCONSTITUTIONAL decisions - AND to side with a handful of atheists, and unconstitutionally prohibit the non-sectarian, character-building, TRUTHS of God, His Holy Bible and Christ, in our schools - predicts nothing short of the fall of America. And - we worship and vote for the Presidents who purposely appointed these Judges, and the majority of Congressional Senators, who rubber-stamped their appointments.

But - ALL of the above delinquencies of most our adults - have been crowned with another - maybe THE LAST BLOW AGAINST OUR GOD AND HIS BIBLE. EVERY church member of EVERY church - who has apathetically accepted NEW, REVISED, BIBLES - titled REVISED STANDARD VERSION - better band together in each church - study the insidious, FAITH DESTROYING changes - REVOLT - and have a bonfire burning outside their churches, of the REVISED Bibles - and upon their kneestell their God - that they NEVER AGAIN will allow Socialist - maybe atheist - top-hierarchy clergymen, to tamper with His precious, Holy Bible. The top-hierarchy clergymen who planned anf foisted their infinitesimal socialist - maybe atheist beliefs, into these REVISED Bibles, SHOULD BE FIRED. The motive and maybe declining, religious FAITH of EVERY church's clergyman, who accepted them for his members - should be seriously questioned.

What kind of people comprise the majority in America today - who WILL NOT REVOLT AND FIGHT FOR GOD, HIS HOLY BIBLE, OUR LORD AND SAVIOUR JESUS CHRIST - WHO BROUGHT TO US "THE GREATEST STORY EVER TOLD"?

Surely - EVERYONE has also noticed the gradual and diminishing emphasis upon "The Greatest Story Ever Told" - in ALL of our news media - television, radio, newspapers and magazines - in recent years.

Now - the REVISED Bibles have eliminated wordings - changed words - eliminated ALL miracles recorded by Jesus Christ - destroyed the Deity of Christ by eliminating the fact that He WAS the BEGOTTEN SON of God - eliminated the work BEGOTTEN wherever written - changed our beloved Mary, mother of Christ, from a VIRGIN - selected by God to give birth to a perfect Christ - God's Son - to a YOUNG WOMAN - like billions of others, past and present throughout the centuries. To the unbelieving - maybe atheist - high clergy - and evidently many clergymen of individual churches over America - Mary could not possibly give birth to a child without intercourse with someone.

God - who created the heavens and earth - and ALL miracles upon, above and beneath His earth - is now incapable of creating a perfect Christ, for His Son - from a VIRGIN.

And - take a critical look at the pictures in "The Revised Version". ALL of them, ordinary, desert land, bleak mountains, old or ruined buildings, a slum-like market-place, a pool called Solomon's pool, two fishermen in a boat, two pages of birds and plants - etc. NOT ONE BEAUTIFUL, INSPIRATIONAL PICTURE. WHY?

It is possible - that most church members of any Christian, religious denomination in our America today - DO NOT CARE IF GOD - HIS HOLY BIBLE - and our LORD AND SAVIOUR JESUS CHRIST - IS REPUDIATED AND DESTROYED? Will they continue to support - with their church contributions - the living and pleasure expenses of those in the hierarchy of church councils - or any of their own church clergymen - plus thousands of educators in our schools - who are continually scheming - to degrade God's Holy Bible as mythology - and destroy "THE GREATEST STORY EVER TOLD"?

If we don't have a revolution AGAINST immorality, and growing socialist - atheism in ALL segments of our society - America is doomed to REPEAT HISTORY - as did ALL empires and nations of past ages - that ignored the immutable laws of - and repudiated the Great Giver of all blessings - their God.

Of ALL the FEARS, that permeate the infinitesimal minds, of infinitesimal men, during a butterfly term of life - allotted to them by their Creator - for proving themselves worthy of an eternity in God's House of Many Mansions - our American people BETTER revive and resurrect, THE FEAR OF THEIR GOD, AND THANKFULNESS TO HIM FOR ALL OF HIS BLESSINGS.

The centuries of history, recorded in His Holy Bible - and ALL succeeding history to date - conclusively show - that there is a LIMIT to His loving care and forgiveness. He HAS THE POWER to consign a once-great, God - fearing America - to a bottomless pit, with the humanity-devastating Satan - whom we embraced - WHEN WE FORGOT OUR GOD.

Long War In Viet Nam Seen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A pro-Peking leader of North Viet Nam has warned his country that peace with the Americans is unlikely and a long war is ahead. He has hinted that North Viet Nam may be more deeply and directly involved in the war in the South.

This comes from Truong Chinh, a Communist Politburo member who has been regarded as a possible successor to Ho Chi Minh. He is an ardent admirer of Red China's Mao Tze-tung.

Truong suggests escalation may be met with escalation.

Bussing was a lot more popular when it meant kissing instead of hauling the kids around.

Today in U. S. History

Today is Monday, Sept. 20, the 263rd day of 1965. There are 102 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1938, a hurricane swept through New England, Long Island and New Jersey; 600 died and thousands were left homsless.

On this date

In 1797, the American frigate, Old Ironsides, was launched.

In 1870, the national unification of Italy was achieved.

In 1941, the Germans entered Kiev, the third largest city in Russia.

In 1944, American troops captured the French port of Brest.

In 1946, President Truman asked for—and got—the resignation of Henry A. Wallace as secretary of commerce after Wallace had asked the President to change American policy toward Russia.

Ten years ago—The U.N. General Assembly defeated, by a vote of 42-12, a Russian effort to replace Nationalist China with a Communist Chinese delegation at the United Nations.

Try Again To End Greek Crisis

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — King Constantine swore in yet another government Friday night in his fifth attempt in two months to end the country's political crisis.

The man who received the mandate this time was Stephanos Stephanopoulos, 66, a mild-mannered economist who served as deputy premier under George Papandreou when Papandreou was fired by the king last July 15.

He plans to go before Parliament next week to seek the required vote of confidence for himself and his 18-member coalition Cabinet.

New Charge Against India

NEW DELHI, India AP — Communist China made a new charge of border violations by India today, a day after it demanded that India pull out of a disputed area near Sikkim within three days.

The new violations were said to have occurred in Sinkiang Province, about 1,000 miles west of Sikkim, Sept. 11 and 16.

CENTER STRIPE—It's a bare back, not a highway, and it belongs to Elsa Martinelli, chatting with actor Marcello Mastroianni on a film set in Rome. The picture, "The Tenth Victim," is a science fiction number and the white center stripe is part of the actress' futuristic costume.

IN OUR PARISH, the bishop was questioning a Confirmation class before administering the sacrament.

"How many of you want to be bishops?" he asked.

A few hands were raised here and there, then suddenly the congregation burst into laughter. The bewildered bishop smiled a minute, but as the laughter continued, he turned to the sanctuary to see if one of the priests could explain what was so funny.

Every priest had his hand raised.
